Lawmakers demand gas-shortage probe

Combined News Services

The nation's gasoline shortage slipped into the summer months Friday with Union Oil's president predicting it would get worse and at least two lawmakers demanding explanations of the crisis from oil companies.

Fred L. Hartley, Union Oil president, told the Assembly Transportation Committee hearing in San Francisco that he had warned the crisis would develop if oil production and refining were not increased and if alternate energy sources were not developed.

"This shortage didn't just happen," he said. "It's man made." He said supplies were short mainly because "refinery expansion was curtailed due to a lack of crude (oil) supply and environmental opposition and to a lesser degree by indecision about gasoline specifications."

In Washington, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., called for an investigation to determine whether the gasoline shortage was a deliberate effort by big oil companies to destroy independent refiners, drive up fuel prices, and repeal environmental protection laws.

In a letter to Lewis A. Engman, Federal Trade Commission chairman, Jackson asked for a report within 30 days on whether the nation's oil giants were engaged in a conspiracy to seize control of the gasoline market.

Jackson said at a press conference the administration's program of voluntary gasoline allocation had fallen "flat on its face."

At the same time, Jackson introduced an amendment to his own mandatory fuels allocation bill calling for tough new anti-trust controls and a long-range six-month FTC study on the structure of the American petroleum industry.

Meanwhile, California Assembly Speaker Bob

Moretti said in a statement in Sacramento that there was evidence oil companies were stockpiling unprocessed oil at the same time they were saying there is a gasoline shortage.

"We have been led to believe by the oil industry that there is a fuel shortage and that high gasoline prices are related to this shortage. The evidence seems to indicate otherwise."

Moretti said an investigation he ordered last month has developed new information.

"True there has been a decline of almost seven million barrels in the West Coast stockpile since February," he said.

NATALIE FRANKLIN SHOVELS CRABS AT REDONDO BEACH

Beach crab crush too much for lifeguard crew

BY CHARLES HINCH, Staff Writer

Millions of tiny, pelagic crabs clung tenaciously to the shoreline from Manhattan Beach to Redondo Beach Friday, frustrating lifeguards' efforts to dispose of them.

The crabs were washed ashore Thursday by an unusual current—and they're apparently determined to establish a permanent beachhead.

"They're here by the millions," said John McFarland, a South Bay guard. "We've been raking them up and trucking them off all day but we've hardly made a dent."

The chance flow of the current has left the beaches north and south of the area free of the small, pink crustaceans, other guards reported. Rocky Ross, a Long Beach lifeguard, said there were none here and speculated the breakwater may have kept them away.

McFarland said it could take crews as long as two weeks to clean the South Bay beaches, depending on how many of the crabs were swept back into the ocean and how many were eaten by sea birds.

It's possible, but not probable that families might begin taking home sacksfull, he said.

"They're edible and some consider them tasty, but they're very small and a little troublesome to prepare and eat."

He said the crabs lay on the beaches five to 10 feet in from the water line at low tide.

The State Department of Fish and Game said they were apparently caught in what oceanographers call the "Davidson current," which runs south to north along the California coast but rarely reaches inland in this area.

The crabs are fed on voraciously by yellowtail fish, the department said, and their presence has enabled fishermen here to catch yellowtail in record numbers.

Shell to supply gas to county at 67% cost hike

Associated Press

Shell Oil Co. will continue supplying gasoline to Los Angeles County after June 30 when its contract expires, but at a 67 per cent price increase over last year, supervisor James Hayes told a news conference Friday.

Hayes said he was "not very happy" to make the announcement, but that the contract was the result of a single bid from a single company.

"That looks to me as if somebody talked to somebody about who is going to bid on what contract," he said.

Under the new contract, Shell agrees to supply the county with 12.5 million gallons of gasoline at an average price of 27.79 cents per gallon, compared to the 19.51 cents a gallon the county had been paying.

Hayes said that he suspects the price increase is a violation of the President's Phase 3 guidelines and that he was checking that possibility with the Cost of Living Council.

The contract does include a clause which permits the county to cancel its agreement with Shell on a 30-day notice and a stipulation that if any public entity in the county gets a lower price, it must be offered to Los Angeles County.

The agreement gives Shell the right to increase the price of gasoline by .024 cents for each one-cent-a-barrel increase in the price of crude oil after proper notification to the county.

Hayes also announced that the county had reached an agreement with Standard Oil Co. for delivery of four million gallons of diesel fuel in the next year at an increase of about 35 per cent a gallon.

Marathon skyjack still hopscotching

RESISTENCIA, Argentina (UPI) — A hijacked Colombian airliner with 14 hostages aboard landed briefly here asking for oil Friday night then took off on another leg of its record marathon hijacking which lasted more than 57 hours with no end in sight.

The plane landed in Resistencia, a town 480 miles north-northwest of Buenos Aires, for only a few minutes after a flight from Mendoza, Argentina, in the Andean foothills. At Mendoza, the hijackers — two masked men described as "long-haired" — permitted nine passengers to leave the plane at the small airport. This left eight passengers and six crewmen aboard.

The hijackers also requested written authorization by Telex from the Argentine foreign ministry to land at Buenos Aires' Ezeiza International Airport.

This seemed to indicate they were desperate for a place to land after hopscotching from one Latin American country to another for more than two days, seeking asylum.

1 DEAD IN SHIP COLLISION

NEW YORK, Saturday (UPI) — A tanker and a cargo container ship collided early today, directly under the world's longest suspension bridge, the Verrazano bridge over the Narrows, killing at least one person — the captain of one of the ships. Preliminary reports indicated the tanker exploded, and authorities reported a mountain of fire shot skyward.

A fire department dispatcher said, "We have at least one person dead, the captain of one of the ships. He was found floating in the water and was picked up by one of our marine units." The captain was not immediately identified.

Astronauts flip, twist in midair for Skylab 'show'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Giggling like children at play, the Skylab 1 astronauts romped with abandon in weightlessness Friday, turning flips, twisting in midair and flying from place to place inside their space station.

In a television show beamed to mission control, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz frolicked about the domes of their space station gliding smoothly and gracefully from wall to wall and from ceiling to floor.

The weightless playground "is better than Disneyland," said Conrad. "The kids of the world could really have a ball up here. We have a blast just moving around."

The television show was a highlight of a day off for the men of Skylab, the first time ever for astronauts to have a day of leisure in space.

They slept for nearly three hours longer than usual and then spent the morning tidying up their space cabin. Later, they prepared for showers, their first since launch a week ago.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz happily showed off their skills in moving and flying inside their gravity-free cabin.

Kerwin suspended himself motionlessly in the middle of the 22-foot wide dome compartment and then twisted and flipped in midair merely by turning his body.

The astronaut added that they had adapted to the weightlessness quickly and with no hint of motion sickness.

"But probably the first thing we do when we get back," he said, "is dive out of bed and crack up."

Skylab program officials, meanwhile, began serious planning for a space-walking attempt to fix a broken solar panel which could supply some badly needed power to the electricity-starved space station.

"It's possible we'll have a space walk as early as next Tuesday," said John H. Disher, the Skylab deputy program director.

Purpose of the space walk would be to cut or pry loose a piece of metal strap which jammed closed a solar power wing on one side of Skylab. The wing would almost double the amount of electrical power available to the space station.

During the May 14 launch of Skylab, a sun shield ripped apart, jamming the power wing and completely tearing off a second solar power wing.

week on several aspects of the Watergate case.

WATERGATE EXCLUSIVE

WASHINGTON — The FBI is looking into the possibility that elements of the Nixon administration's master plan for domestic intelligence gathering were put into operation despite President Nixon's assurance at the proposal "never into effect."

Nixon acknowledged the existence of the so-called 1970 intelligence plan in long statement last

HE DISCLOSED at one point that the "unused" intelligence program, which was drawn up in response to increasing campus and urban unrest, included provisions for "surreptitious entry" by federal agents in the course of national security investigations.

Federal investigators believe that the plan's "breaking and entering" clause may have been used to support a number of burglaries, including some laid to members of the special investigations unit at the White House, but they have not yet determined which administration officials, if any, authorized its use.

The FBI is now examining a copy of the secret intelligence program, as are investigators for the Senate Watergate committee. The senators received their copy of the document from John W. Dean III, who removed it from the White House shortly before he was dismissed April 30, as the President's legal counsel.

In other Watergate developments: — It was reported that Senate Watergate counsel Sam Dash rejected as courts to stop the hearings.

— Cox told U.S. attorneys handling the Watergate cases to go ahead with their investigations, but to clear major decisions with him.

— Former Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian spent five hours Friday being interviewed by Senate Watergate committee investigators behind closed doors.

the WORLD TODAY

Dollar hits bottom, gold soars

LONDON — For the third time this week, the U.S. dollar Friday sank to record lows against leading European currencies, and the price of gold climbed to new highs. Trading was active, suggesting more trouble on the horizon for the battered dollar.

Japanese buyers reportedly added to the demands for gold. Earlier in the week the demand was said to be coming from Europe and the Middle East. Another unsettling factor Friday came from speculation in West Germany that the mark would again be revalued. The mark was strong not only against the dollar, but also against most European currencies.

Dealers suggested, however, that the main cause of the dollar weakness remains concern that the Watergate scandal will weaken President Nixon's ability to solve U.S. economic problems.

NATIONAL Almost balanced

WASHINGTON — The federal government will be within $3 billion of balancing its budget in the next fiscal year, according to new budget estimates Friday by the Office of Management and Budget. An improved budget picture for both fiscal 1973 and 1974 results from sharply higher income tax payments by individuals and corporations, while budget expenditures are to remain the same.

The new estimated deficit for fiscal year 1973 which begins next month compares with the January deficit estimate of $13 billion.

Drinkers pay more

WASHINGTON — Citing environmental considerations, the Civil Aeronautics Board Friday ruled airlines that don't have cocktail lounges can charge lower rates than airlines that do. The board, by a 3-1 vote, said the current energy crisis has shown there is a need to operate aircraft more economically. By removing the lounges, they said, the airlines can squeeze in more passengers.

Activists face trial

PENSACOLA, Fla. — A federal judge Friday refused to dismiss an indictment against eight antiwar activists accused of conspiring to disrupt the 1972 Republican National Convention. U.S. District Judge Winston Arnou also refused a defense request to delay the July 17 trial of the group. The seven Vietnam Veterans Against the War and one supporter are accused of conspiring to disrupt the convention with violence, including bombs and firearms.

Russ deny U.S. role

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union's embassy in Washington issued a strong denial Friday of reports that U.S. diplomatic intervention had prevented an imminent nuclear attack by Moscow on the People's Republic of China.

'Doubleheader'

A "doubleheader" tornado knifed two swaths through the edge of Frankenthum, Mich., Friday, killing several head of cattle and damaging seven houses and 10 barns. The twister touched town northeast of the rural town, cut two paths through a woods and hit homes and barns in its way. No injuries were reported.

Swamp fires curbed

MONROE STATION, Fla. — A three-week battle to contain two big swamp fires appeared near an end Friday when forestry officials reported they had the blazes trapped behind firebreaks.

Gene Morse, Florida Forestry Division spokesman, said helicopters were being used to patrol fire lines at the 30,500-acre Big Cypress fire, 50 miles east of the lower Gulf Coast city of Naples, and the 9,350-acre Seminole blaze north of Naples.

Irish vote fatal

BELFAST — Bombing and shootings in which two persons were killed and 14 injured overshadowed tabulation of returns Friday from Northern Ireland's first local elections in six years. The count showed Protestants retaining control over most of the 26 councils despite introduction of the proportional representative system.

The deaths Thursday night raised the fatality toll in almost four years of strife among the majority protestants, minority Roman Catholics and British security forces to 808.

Nixon home, calls summit success

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returned Friday from talks with French President Georges Pompidou with his two chief foreign policy advisers hailing the summit as a success.

"We achieved what we set out to do," presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen aboard the plane that brought Nixon and his aides across the North Atlantic from Iceland.

"It went very well," Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in a separate session with reporters. "It lived up to our expectations."

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler added that Nixon felt his two days of talks with Pompidou were "very successful."

The optimistic assessments contrasted with the fact that no agreements on specific issues such as trade or monetary reform — or even substantial progress toward eventual agreements — emerged from the two-day conference on the fringes of the Arctic.

But Nixon's advisers said specific agreements were not sought.

The goal was to agree upon procedures to follow in future negotiations intended to reshape and modernize the Atlantic alliance, Kissinger said.

"There was no attempt at any time to get into substantive resolution of issues" such as trade and monetary reform, he added.

When the President stepped from his blue, white and silver jetliner, "The Spirit of '76" after the six-hour flight he was greeted with kisses from his wife, Pat, and daughter, Mrs. Julie Eisenhower, and a handshake from son-in-law David Eisenhower.

Then the First Family boarded a helicopter to fly to the Camp David retreat in the Maryland mountains, where they planned to spend the weekend.

Kissinger said the procedures agreed upon at the summit — essentially continued bilateral and multilateral negotiations and a July meeting of Atlantic community deputy foreign ministers — means that "now we know how to go about" efforts to revitalize the transatlantic alliance.

"That doesn't mean we will agree" on ways to resolve specific issues, he said, but "at least we know where we're going." Kissinger sought to dispel a belief that Nixon went to the Iceland talks hoping for Pompidou's agreement for a "super summit" of leaders of 16 Atlantic alliance countries.

"We never proposed it," he said.

Greek King calls ouster 'painful'

Combined News Services

King Constantine II sent word from Rome late Friday night that his deposition by the Greek military regime had come as a painful surprise to him.

"The king didn't expect what has happened, and he is very sorry about it," said a spokesman, Leonidas Papagos, said.

King Constantine remained in seclusion with members of his family and a few aides all day. His spokesman declared Friday afternoon that a statement may be issued in the king's behalf "tonight or tomorrow."

It was not clear whether the king would issue a formal comment today on the proclamation of the Greek republic.

The king, a solitary and somewhat remote figure in Rome since he arrived as an exile in December, 1967, was reported Friday night to be consulting with his family and advisers, in person and by long-distance telephone.

These tense consultations on what to say and to do in the next few hours and on long-range prospects for the deposed monarch and the royal family marked the eve of King Constantine's 33rd birthday today.

With the king were his Danish-born queen, Anne-Marie, and their three children, Princess Alexia, seven years old, Crown Prince Paul, six, and Prince Nicholas, three.

King Constantine's mother, former Queen Frederika, joined them Friday afternoon.

Premier George Papadopoulos abolished Greece's monarchy Friday, accusing exiled King Constantine of "monstrous acts," and proclaimed himself president of a new Greek republic.

The conversion of Greece into a republic came after the military-backed regime last week broke up what it said was a coup attempt by two retired admirals and active navy officers.

Papadopoulos, a former colonel, masterminded the April 1967 military takeover that ended parliamentary rule in Greece, the land that named democracy.

He became head of the government and then crown regent in March 1972.

The decision to abolish the monarchy was made at a special Cabinet meeting in Athens, after Constantine failed to condemn last week's abortive coup attempt.

Earlier this year students at Greek universities protested the regime's policies and posed the first massive challenge to the military men in power.

Birthday for queen

Throughout her realm and in British embassies and consulates around the world, Englishmen celebrate the official birthday of Queen Elizabeth II today and the start of the third decade of her reign.

Elizabeth, 47, actually was born Feb. 26, but her official birthday is celebrated in June when the weather in London can be expected to be better.

The trooping of the guards, a panoply of British pomp and circumstance involving flashing armor, clattering horses, booming drums and bearskin hats also comes today and thousands of Britons and tourists gathered for the occasion.

A spokesman for Buckingham Palace took the occasion Friday to scotch rumors that Elizabeth might soon resign to make way for Prince Charles, 24, heir to the throne.

Lord Lambton, one of two ministers who quit the British government after admitting an affair with a call girl, bowed out of Parliament on Friday after 22 years. He resigned as air force minister last week after admitting to a casual affair with Mrs. Norma Levy, 26.

Her son by a previous marriage, Marine Staff Sgt. Gregory Harris, was reported captured June 12, 1966.

HARVEY FIRESTONE

Tire magnate Firestone dies

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., former chairman of the board of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and a power in the U.S. rubber industry for more than four decades, died Friday at his home in Akron, Ohio following a long illness. He was 75.

Firestone, was with the company for 50 years, as chief executive officer for 17 years from 1946 until 1963 when he relinquished the company's top post at the age of 65.

He remained as chairman of the board until 1966 and served as honorary chairman until his retirement from active service in 1969. He continued as honorary director until his death. He also was president of the Firestone Foundation.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

Firestone was two years old when his father founded the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. By his freshman year at Princeton University, he was going on camping trips with Harvey Sr., Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford.

And at his retirement in 1969, company sales had doubled to reach $1.3 billion.

LBJ Day

Gov. Dolph Briscoe signed a bill Friday making Aug. 27, the birthday of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texas state holiday.

It will be the first state holiday in honor of a native Texan.

"God gave every human being the power to dream, but he gave to Lyndon Johnson the power to reach above us and pull the dream of a better world down to within the grasp of millions," Briscoe said in Austin.

He then handed the bill to Lady Bird Johnson, later taking it away with apology saying he had "to give it to the secretary of state."

TV talk set

Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev will deliver a nationwide half-hour televised address during his summit visit to the U.S. starting June 18, White House officials disclosed Friday.

President Nixon made a similar broadcast to the Russian people during his summit visit to Moscow in late May of last year. The precise date and details of the televised address still must be worked out with the networks, officials said.

Trucker's trial set in hire-to-kill case

The operator of a Wilmington-based state-wide trucking firm Friday was ordered to stand trial for allegedly soliciting a Teamster Union leader to kill the manager of a rival trucking company.

Victor Peter Suglio, who lives in San Jose but operates local offices of the American Transport Systems, was given a June 15 arraignment date for Long Beach Superior Court during his preliminary hearing, then was released on $10,000 bail.

According to testimony at the preliminary hearing in San Pedro before Municipal Judge Walter S. Bluns, Suglio solicited long-time Teamster official Dominick Scaccia to kill 33-year-old Gus Makras, manager of the Wilmington office of the Bay View Trucking Co.

Scaccia, business manager of Teamsters' Local 692 in Wilmington, told the court that Suglio brought up the subject May 1, while the two talked in a rest room at Long Beach's Velvet Turtle restaurant.

"He told me he wanted Gus Makras dead," Scaccia testified. "Kill the son of a bitch. I don't care how you do it, but do it. I want the son of a bitch dead."

Scaccia testified that the discussion occurred during a meeting at the restaurant with Roy M. Whitman, of La Palma, manager-dispatcher for Suglio's trucking firm. Whitman was not present, however, when Suglio solicited the killing, Scaccia testified.

After haggling for more than the offered $7,500, according to courtroom testimony, Scaccia went to police and was given a hidden transmitter to allow his conversations to be monitored — and recorded — by a police officer 100 feet away.

The second conversation between Scaccia and Suglio, in which the hire-to-kill offer was repeated, was read into the court record.

That conversation took place May 22 at the rear of Suglio's office in Wilmington and was recorded and overheard by Los Angeles Police Officer Kenneth Stafford, the officer testified.

Whitman, who also took the stand during the preliminary hearing, said Scaccia came to the Wilmington office "for five or 10 minutes" on May 22. But, Whitman said under questioning by Deputy District Attorney Ray V. Saukkola, he was unaware of any discussion that day or of the alleged initial solicitation for Makras' killing.

Although no motive for the killing of Makras was brought out in testimony at the hearing, police indicated earlier that it involved company rivalry. Suglio is a former president of American Transport Systems who now is listed as major stockholder and director of the firm.

Strike at sea park all over

A strike by divers and animal trainers, which has kept Marineland of the Pacific closed for the past 55 days, ended Friday when members of Operating Engineers Union Local 501 agreed to a new contract, the oceanarium's management reported.

The dispute, involving 35 workers including maintenance staff members, began April 7 after negotiations — centered on the issue of wages — broke down.

While the union reported that its members were voluntarily assisting management personnel in caring for the park's performing animals, an oceanarium official reported at the height of the dispute that the animals missed the attention of tourist crowds.

The first Sunday after strikers' picket lines went up, an estimated 7,000 visitors were turned away from Marineland. Management officials reported that an average weekend crowd at the park numbers about 5,000 persons.

When Marineland workers walked out, they had been working without a contract for more than three months as negotiations waxed and waned over pay scale.

Policy stir forced assistant to resign, says L.A. sheriff

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Assistant Sheriff Howard Earle's resignation stemmed from policy clashes over use of a county helicopter for business meetings and Earle's freelance work as a writer and consultant, Sheriff Peter Pitchess said Friday.

Pitchess told an impromptu press conference Earle had resigned by "mutual agreement" following a showdown over his outside activities and a reprimand from the sheriff for using a helicopter to attend a meeting of Contract Cities officials at the California Country Club in Whittier.

Declaring he didn't want helicopters used "as a taxi service," Pitchess said, "I even restrict use of helicopters by county supervisors." Earle on the other hand felt copters should be used for "executive transportation" to and from meetings, Pitchess said.

Asked about reports Earle had used a chopper to fly to a golf game, Pitchess said he had heard the same reports but that Earle had denied ever making such a trip.

Referring to Earle's freelance work, Pitchess said he was "afraid of a possible conflict of interest" developing over one of Earle's text books on police and community relations being required reading at college police courses.

He said the college buys the book as a bulk order adding that law enforcement personnel taking the course have to pay $13.50 a copy as required reading material.

Since much of the material for the book comes from Earle's work as third man in line in the sheriff's department, Pitchess said he was "fearful this could produce a problem in future."

The sheriff said when he discussed this matter with Earle about a week ago the 44-year-old assistant sheriff agreed to step down rather than give up his outside work. He said he asked Earle to "think the matter over" adding that Earle came back to him early Friday saying he had chosen to resign.

In reply to a question Pitchess stressed Earle had "no connection whatsoever" with the county's ORACLE program for the computerized retrieval of criminal records. The county and the Ampex Corp., suppliers of the automated equipment for the program, presently are suing each other over cancellation of the $8.3 million ORACLE contract.

Pitchess generally had high praise for Earle saying "he was one of my most loyal people."

"I'm saddened that we arrived at a parting of the ways and I'll give him a high recommendation for any future job," Pitchess said. He added Earle probably would make more money as a teacher, writer and consultant than his present $34,620 a year job pays.

Pitchess also stressed that if Earle had not agreed to resign "I don't think I'd have had any grounds to fire him."

Unrattled cat?

Can you tell me if it is just an old wife's tale that having cats around your home in the desert will keep rattlesnakes away? We are going to live in the high desert, and while I'm not particularly fond of cats, they sure beat rattlesnakes. M.D., Anaheim.

A fierce feline, like any other animal with a streak of inquisitiveness, will have some effect in keeping rattlers at bay, ACTION LINE was told. "But it's an old wife's tale that cats in particular are more inclined to chase rattlesnakes," said Jerry Staedeli, curator for the San Diego Zoo. "It's an individual characteristic appearing in any breed. Even certain dogs, because of particular idiosyncrasies, go after snakes." If you get a pet as a snake protector, leave the animal outside at night because that is when rattlers are most active, a biology professor advised. But using any pet you're very fond of for such guard duty is a risky plan. In any encounter with a rattlesnake, your pet very likely will come off second best — and second best to a rattler usually is terminal for a small animal.

I told them to cancel the order. When I went to get my deposit, they said the chair had come in and I couldn't have my deposit until it was sold. I have waited two more months and the chair is still not sold. I don't see why my deposit should be held when I canceled the deal. Can you help? D.A., Long Beach.

No. According to store owner Robert Salz, you didn't cancel the order for the chair until after it had been manufactured to your specifications. He said you were told two days after you put your deposit down to select another fabric for the couch because they were having difficulty getting the material you ordered. He said at that time you canceled the order for the couch only. "Then he called back later and canceled the whole thing, but it was too late," he said. He reiterated that you can get your deposit back when the chair, which was made up especially for you, is sold.

REACTION

Your recent item involving Stateland, 13960 Harbor Blvd., Garden Grove, and me left out certain facts that I believe, in the interest of truth and fairness, need answering. We indeed sold Rossmore Regency apartments, the two fountains and delivered them as requested. They weren't quite ready for installation so we left them in their locked storeroom. Two months later when we went back to install the fountains, we found one pump missing, apparently stolen. We informed the owner and he said he would pay for a replacement pump. We made the installation and, when we left, both fountains were running. We were not paid for the additional pump. Six months later, one of the pumps quit working and they asked us to service it. We explained they still owed us for the extra pump, which retails for $60, and when they paid us we would service the fountain. We still haven't been paid. As to your charge that I failed to respond to your inquiry, I tried twice to call you back and couldn't reach you. Woodrow W. Butterfield, Garden Grove.

3 withdraw bids to be SFSU chief

Associated Press
Chancellor Glenn Dumke said Friday three "distinguished candidates" for president of San Francisco State University have withdrawn, two because of leaks to the press.

All three had overwhelming support from a "rainbow committee" composed of trustees, administrators, and campus professors, said Dumke, head of the 19-campus state university system.

HE SAID San Francisco State "has lost an opportunity for leadership by three distinguished candidates chosen from among 19 finalists," he said.

The three men are believed to be William Boyd, president of Central Michigan University; James Fisher, president of Towson State College in Maryland; and Lawson Crowe, University of Colorado provost.

Dumke said in Los Angeles that one is about to accept another position and the other two are withdrawing because of "premature disclosure of their names."

Earlier this week, Frederic Terrien, faculty committee spokesman, charged that Dumke had tried to make a deal with the professors to forward his favorite candidate to the trustees even though they opposed him.

Dumke denied Terrien's allegation.

KARL WENTE, former board of trustees chairman, said a committee composed solely of trustees now would now search for a successor for retiring S.I. Hayakawa. He said this action resulted because of the leaks of names by faculty members.

"Final responsibility rests solely with the board of trustees," Dumke said.

The San Francisco State faculty senate has voted unanimously that "no person should be selected without the support and approval of the faculty presidential selection committee."

County rate of employment hits an all-time high

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Employment in Los Angeles County rose last month for the fourth consecutive month and reached an all-time high for May, it was reported Friday.

Odessa Dubinsky, senior manpower analyst the Department of Human Resources Development, also noted that the unemployment rate remained at the lowest level in 41 months.

She said employment climbed by 9,000 from April to a record 3,306,700 for May.

"The number of unemployed actually dropped," Miss Dubinsky said, "but since May typically has the lowest unemployment of the first half of any year, the seasonal adjustment kept the rate at 4.5 per cent, the same as April."

THE INCREASE in May reflected a continuation of expansion in both the manufacturing and nonmanufacturing sectors of the economy, she said.

About one-half of the job gains last month in the county occurred in factory employment with both durable and nondurable goods production showing in the upturn. The largest increases were reported in the metal industry and in the production of electrical and nonelectrical machinery.

The employment picture also improved throughout the state during May. Employment was up and unemployment down, the State Human Resources Development Department said.

Director Dwight Geduldig, said total employment reached 8,575,000 during May. That is up 98,700 from April and was 260,500 more than May 1972.

Unemployment dropped to 4.9 per cent, the lowest point since January, 1970. Geduldig said the state had 421,000 jobless last month.

HE NOTED the 4.9 per cent unemployment rate compared with 7.4 per cent in May 1971, 5.9 per cent in May 1972 and 5.2 per cent in April.

For the second year in a row, Geduldig said, the aerospace industry has gained. Aerospace jobs were up 13,400 in May 1972 and up another 25,800 this May.

Nationally, the unemployment rate held at 5 per cent in May despite the fast pace of the economy.

But Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said the government's monthly job report, released Friday, indicated that the economy finally may be slowing down a bit.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the nation's job picture was essentially unchanged. The unemployment rate has hovered around 5 per cent since last November.

As in April, there were 4.4 million people out of work, and 84 million on the job. These figures, however, are adjusted to take seasonal job patterns into account. There was actually a small decline in the number of people out of work, but it was normal for May.

STEIN said in a statement that total civilian employment rose in May by about 100,000 compared with an average of 300,000 per month from November through March. His reasoning: fewer jobs are being created because of some slackening in production.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said that while the jobless rate remained at 5 per cent, "inflation continued at a rapid rate, profits skyrocketed, interest rates climbed sharply, speculation continued unchecked, and corporate executives received more than ever."

A slowing of the economic pace is part of the administration's economic strategy. It hopes to cut the growth rate to about 4 per cent later this year to keep the economy from overheating. It forecast a drop in the jobless rate to about 4.5 per cent by year's end.

THE May jobs report showed that may be hard to make. The jobless rate for most major groups of the labor force held at about their April levels. For adult men, it was 3.4 per cent, adult women, 4.6 per cent and teen-agers, 15.4 per cent. The bureau counted a small decline in the rate of white-collar unemployment, from 3.1 to 2.8 per cent.

There was another improvement. For Vietnam veterans aged 20 to 24, the jobless rate, while still high at 8.2 per cent, was better than April's 9.3 per cent.

For blacks and other minorities, the jobless rate rose, however, from 9.1 per cent in April to 9.4 per cent in May.

Safeway discredits farm worker suits

OAKLAND (AP) — Suits filed against Safeway Stores Inc. by the Interfaith Committee to Aid the Farm Workers "are without merit" and contain "false and malicious" charges, W.S. Mitchell, Safeway president, said Friday.

Mitchell commented on the San Francisco County Superior Court's action granting the company's dismissal motion for the class action section of an $80 million committee-launched suit.

The suit, one of several committee-supported actions against the food chain, charges that Safeway mislabeled and misrepresented packages of meat to shoppers.

"We are eager and anxious to show that these suits are without merit," said Mitchell. "We are confident that we will be able to prove that the charges in all of the law suits that the Interfaith Committee has brought against us are false and malicious."

Everglades Marina employees display $100 bills they retrieved from the water after an unidentified man paid $45,000 cash for three speedboats in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and with help of three girls spread thousands of dollars in the wake as he sped away Friday. A check with the bank verified the $100 bills as authentic. The bills of sale and other transfer papers were made out with blank spaces for the owner's name. The docks were emptied when he left, as everyone jumped into the water to retrieve the money.

Labor Dept. ordered to halt wide migrant bias

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge Friday ordered the Department of Labor to end all discrimination against migratory and seasonal farm workers who, he said, were denied benefits from federally funded state employment offices.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles Richey ruled the Labor Department has violated the Constitution and the 1964

Civil Rights Act by failing to provide minority workers with a full range of benefits, services and protection due them by federal and state employment agencies.

Richey said the department is illegally supporting state rural employment agencies that have "subjected minority farm workers to racial, national origin, sex and age discrimination in recruiting and referring applicants" for employment.

He also said that minority farm workers were being referred to employers who violated minimum wage and child labor laws, failed to make Social Security payments to the workers' accounts and forced them to live in segregated housing.

The decision came in a suit filed by attorneys for the Migrant Legal Action Program Inc.

U.S. probe verifies illicit dairymen funds to Nixon

By BEN A. FRANKLIN
WASHINGTON — More than a year after the White House was accused in a lawsuit of ordering a multimillion-dollar rise in the federal milk price level in return for hidden campaign contributions from the dairy industry, top aides of President Nixon were still taking secret cash campaign gifts from milk interests, government investigators said Friday.

The charge came in a suit filed by Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate, in January, 1972, and it was indignantly denied then by administration officials.

Yet the existence of two additional illegally concealed dairy-farmer contributions — a total of $50,000 in $100 bills given after the denial by the Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers, an eastern Pennsylvania milk marketing co-op — was confirmed Friday by the government investigators. Details of the newly discovered transaction were reported Friday in the Washington Post.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said it was interviewing those involved, reportedly including former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, apparently in preparation for a criminal prosecution.

Mitchell, then the director of the principal Nixon campaign committee, was said by a former aide to have "arranged the entire transaction." It was never reported as required by law.

The Lehigh Valley contributions — $25,000 in late April, 1972, and $25,000 that May — were required under the new Federal Election Campaign Act to be reported and fully identified in public disclosure statements filed by the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

The law, which provides a penalty for failure to report of up to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine for each offense, took effect April 7, 1972.

According to J. Curtis Herge, a former Nixon campaign official then in charge of scheduling so-called surrogate speakers for the Nixon campaign, officials of the Pennsylvania dairy co-op had originally sought Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as a speaker at their annual meeting in Coatesville, Pa., on April 20, 1972.

Herge, now a special assistant to Dep. Atty. Gen. Joseph T. Sneed, said in an interview that the dairymen, through Mitchell, had offered a $100,000 contribution for Agnew's appearance.

But because of scheduling difficulties, Herge said, the speaking date was filled instead by Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, for whom the dairymen were willing to give only $50,000.

Smith denies 'phony profits' fraud scheme

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Financier C. Arnholt Smith denied Friday that he ever misused the assets of his Westgate-California Corp. or his bank as charged by the Securities & Exchange Commission.

Smith, a major contributor to Republican Party candidates, was accused in a U. S. District Court suit filed Thursday of helping defraud the conglomerate and the bank.

THE ALLEGED scheme allowed certain Westgate assets to be sold to purchasers who obtained their cash from the United States National Bank, which Smith headed until recently, through loans secured by the assets being purchased, the SEC said.

In the civil suit, it asked that Smith, 74, be barred from serving as an officer of any public company.

Smith, chairman of Westgate-California, said in a statement that the charges were unfounded.

"Westgate did derive profits of $17.5 million during the period 1969-72 from the sale of assets mentioned in the civil complaint," he said.

THE PROFITS were recognized at the time of the transactions as being valid and the sales were real sales for which the corporation received cash in most cases.

"The transactions were with third parties not under domination or control of Westgate or Mr. Smith and they obtained undisputed legal title to the properties they acquired."

As the largest stockholder and until recently chairman and president of the bank, Smith said he would "not have any incentive to misuse assets."

The appointment of a receiver for Westgate was asked by the SEC, which termed the $17.5 million "phony profits" through various firms either controlled or associated with Smith. It said further that "false and misleading profit statements were published to camouflage the unlawful activity."

THE SUIT claimed the bank still has $20 million in loans outstanding to Westgate firms. A cease and desist order was issued by the office of the U.S. comptroller of the currency under which Smith has agreed to indemnify the bank against any losses from loans made to Westgate-California Corp. and its subsidiaries.

A federal court hearing was set for June 18 on the SEC's petition asking that a receiver be appointed to handle and investigate the affairs of the Westgate firms and that injunctions be issued against Smith and other defendants.

THE OTHERS were listed as Philip A. Toft, who succeeded Smith as Westgate's president; M. J. Coen of Kansas City, who has served as chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of First California Co., San Francisco; Sovereign States Capital Corp., San Diego; British Columbia Investment Co. and Elsinore Royalty Inc., Kansas City, and United States Holding Co., San Diego.

Smith, a long-time friend of President Nixon, is owner of the San Diego Padres but announced last weekend he was selling the baseball team to a Washington, D.C., group of businessmen for $12 million.

Labeling going to the dogs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers will have a choice of three types of frankfurters and other cooked sausages under new labeling and ingredient requirements adopted Friday by the Agriculture Department.

The changes in the federal meat inspection regulations were first proposed in March and are designed to tell shoppers at a glance what they are paying for. Meat processors have until Sept. 7 to change over to the new requirements.

Under the changes products made from more than one kind of meat — for example, part beef, pork and poultry — will be labeled with their traditional generic names such as "frankfurter," "bologna," or "knockwurst."

If all the meat is of one particular kind, the product's label will have to show just that — for example, "beef frankfurter."

Those products which also contain meat by-products, such as hearts or tongues, will have to be labeled to reflect this — for instance, "frankfurters with by-products," or "franks with variety meats."

Wheat deal probe goes to Justice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Investigation of possible irregularities on the Kansas City Board of Trade in connection with last summer's huge sale of wheat to the Soviet Union was placed in the hands of the Department of Justice Friday.

The Commodity Exchange Authority sent the report on its investigation to the Justice Department for further inquiry. Samuel F. Gordon, CEA regional director who conducted the investigation, emphasized the report was simply turned over "without recommendation."

Neither the CEA report nor a study by a five-man business conduct committee named by the Board of Trade was made public. However, the board said some time ago, at the conclusion of its inquiry that no irregularities were discovered.

Although details were never released, it was believed the inquiries centered on the movement of wheat future prices which spurted at the close of several sessions, in relation to opening prices the following day. Closing prices figured in the computation of export subsidies the next day.

POW check ups planned to avert violence pattern

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's health chief said Friday that all returned Vietnam war prisoners will be advised and watched for five years to avoid the high violent death rates experienced by some U.S. POWs after World War II and Korea.

Dr. Richard Wilbur indicated concern about the potential for violence as former war prisoners and their families readjust to living together again after years of separation.

Wilbur told newsmen that all 566 returned U.S. POWs suffered what doctors call "stress reaction" after coming back, but he said these manifestations of depression, fright and euphoria "will not last with them."

WILBUR recalled that U.S. servicemen who returned from Japanese prison camps in World War II and from Korean camps in that war "did badly in the first three years" after they were freed.

He spoke of a high rate of trauma resulting in suicides, murders and accidental deaths during that period.

He did not provide figures, but military doctors reported earlier this year that the death rate of World War II POWs who returned from Japanese prisons averaged 50 per cent higher than the general U.S. population. The post-Korean rate was reported comparable.

With this in mind, Wilbur said, "we will counsel the men and all their families" to avoid a post-Vietnam repetition.

"We plan to follow them for five years, even if they resign," Wilbur said.

THE Pentagon's health director said Vietnam war POWs have experienced "a lot of difficulty in moving back into their families."

He said that the POW often finds that his family has been "getting along pretty well without him."

He asks to see the checkbook and takes over the family car, and "the wife feels she's been put back in the home," Wilbur said.

As a result, he said, the returned POW "feels himself kind of extra."

"He needs a lot of help fitting back into the family."

Wilbur also presented preliminary figures on various forms of injury and disease found by military doctors who examined the freed POWs in U.S. hospitals.

Nearly one-third of them, principally Air Force and Navy pilots, he said, had suffered major fractures, including back injuries, after ejecting from stricken aircraft.

WILBUR said that some of the POWs "probably will not ever be able to go back to active duty, but the vast majority will." He indicated corrective surgery is necessary in a number of cases.

He said the military services are studying ways to make emergency ejections from fast-moving airplanes less hazardous.

Wilbur also said that more than 53 per cent of the POWs came back with worms.

These parasites led to malnutrition and anemia, Wilbur said, adding that "we think we can get rid of them."

In general, Wilbur said that medical treatment provided by the North Vietnamese "was far from adequate."

First in history

Maj. Gen. Jeanne M. Holm, 51, secretary of the Air Force Personnel Council, receives her second star in Pentagon ceremonies Friday. She became the first woman to achieve her rank in U.S. military history. Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Richard J. Borda, left, and Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Horace M. Wade pin on the silver stars. Only seven women have attained the rank of General or Admiral.

Anderson proposes cut in foreign bases first

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., has introduced legislation in Congress that would require the Defense Department to lay-off foreign workers at overseas U.S. military installations before laying-off civilian employees at domestic bases.

"When we cut defense costs, the first place to start is overseas, at installations performing a mission that can be handled equally well in the United States," Anderson said.

Anderson cited the naval facility at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, which hires 867 foreign nationals, as an example of foreign civilians who should be laid off before the civilians employed at the Long Beach Naval Station.

The Navy estimates that the reduction at Long Beach will save approximately $11.4 million annually. At the same time, the Defense Department has asked Congress to approve $8.4 million worth of new construction at Guantanamo Bay.

"I support the Pentagon's effort to save money, and improve operations, but the savings should not be at the expense of even higher unemployment at home, and an increase of our flow of funds overseas," Anderson added.

Servicewomen told they may claim benefits for mates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Friday that about 4,400 married female members of the armed services may begin taking advantage of a Supreme Court ruling and apply for housing and medical benefits for their husbands.

On May 14, the Supreme Court ruled favorably on an appeal from former Air Force Lt. Sharon Frontiero, who sought a housing allowance for her husband just as married servicemen receive for their dependants. Mrs. Frontiero has since left the service.

At the time she sought the benefits, her husband was a college student in Alabama.

Pentagon officials said they had no estimate yet on how much providing benefits for husbands would cost. Depending on rank and the number of dependants, the housing

Addicts back on duty after rehabilitation

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Navy said Friday it has rehabilitated and put back on active duty 151 sailors and 15 Marines once "seriously involved" with drugs.

They were among 1,800 servicemen treated by the Navy's first drug abuse center, which opened here in 1971.

Capt. Constantino N. Pierozzi, 51, said in addition to those returned to duty about 60 per cent are now civilians, voluntarily continuing rehabilitation.

Fuel, fund needs limit readiness, Zumwalt charges

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A shortage of fuel and funds is "seriously limiting" the U.S. Navy's capabilities, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt Jr. said Friday.

The chief of naval operations said defense cutbacks have curtailed the Navy and a continued fuel shortage will mean further reductions in the ability of the fleet to respond to emergencies.

"In both cases, these limitations are seriously reducing our readiness," Zumwalt told a news conference. He has met for two days with fleet commanders.

He defended the so-called "grams," his orders liberalizing the traditional restrictions on sailors but said some persons have treated them too liberally.

Said Zumwalt: "There are some who would seek to go further than the changes permit... there is another kind of people that need to be dragged kicking and screaming into the 20th century."

3-day festival for Viet vets launched

DALLAS (UPI) — More than 400 former POWs and their wives rode through downtown streets Friday, launching the three-day Vietnam veterans homecoming celebration.

Stormy skies threatened to dampen the affair, but Major Wes Wise called on residents to fill the Cotton Bowl for ceremonies tonight despite the weather.

The atmosphere of the events was generally informal compared to the recent White House gathering and dinner for the POWs.

President Nixon conveyed his deep regrets that he was unable to attend the Dallas affair. He returned to Washington Friday after meeting in Reykjavik with French President Georges Pompidou.

The reception for the former POWs and delegations of selected veterans from several states was organized primarily by computer billionaire H. Ross Perot and W.W. Clements, a soft drink bottling executive.

They head a citizens committee which provided free transportation, housing and meals for the former POWs and which lined up the downtown parade, a Friday night dinner and the Cotton Bowl entertainment spectacular tonight.

The free show will be hosted by Bob Hope and will feature a variety of actors, actresses and singers including Mike Connors, Marty Allen, Barbara McNair and Gloria Loring.

In addition to the more than 400 families in attendance, about 100 wives of men missing in action joined the honorees.

John Connally, an honorary chairman of the event, will address the Cotton Bowl crowd today.

Corps loses battle Short hair wig OK for Leathernecks

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that Marine reservists may wear short-hair wigs.

U.S. District Judge Philip Neville enjoined the Marines Thursday from enforcing an unwritten rule that requires naturally short hair on reservists.

A similar ruling was made last November in Minneapolis by U.S. District Judge Miles Lord affecting Army reservists, but representatives of the Marine Corps contended that their case was different.

A Marine Corps general testified that short hair encourages the discipline vital to the Marines' conscious effort to "project the image of a small, disciplined, elite fighting force."

Neville rejected the argument, commenting, "however high the morale of the Marines on active duty, the court... seriously questions whether this camaraderie extends to the Marine reservists, many of whose enlistments were probably encouraged by the draft and the war in Vietnam."

The world's biggest philanthropist — that's Uncle Sam, the great giveaway artist of the 20th century with aid and handouts for every country that wants something it can't afford.

But, if Uncle Sam does, indeed, have "a heart as big as all outdoors," he also has a pretty big hand, too. And it's buried deeply in your pocket and mine — scratching around for the tax money to support his habit.

that he would, otherwise, have to shoulder.

(such as income-producing real estate) have long been classic tax shelters for relatively conservative investors.

Q: I HAVE followed your column with great interest. I don't think you have dealt with the subject of tax-sheltered investments. I wonder if you can give information regarding it.

The most common example, of course, is home ownership since it permits the homeowner to deduct the interest on his mortgage, and his taxes from his taxable income. Tax-exempt bonds are another common example: By making the income from such bonds free of taxes, the government is encouraging investors to help finance local, community projects that — without this “sweetener” — would be too low in their yield to attract the required financing.

Q: I HAVE Series E Bonds which will reach full maturity shortly. I would like to know if I will be required to pay federal tax on the interest that these E bonds have earned if I switch them over to Series H Bonds?

In particular I wish to know: What is a tax-sheltered investment? Is such an investment highly speculative? Where may one get particulars regarding such institutions?

The next largest tax shelter would undoubtedly be income-producing real estate where not only mortgage interest and taxes are deductible, but also all other expenses involved in maintaining and leasing the property. Depreciation, too, becomes a key consideration here.

A: As long as you are converting E bonds for H bonds at their current redemption value (minimum conversion: $500), the tax is deferred until the H bonds are redeemed, disposed of, or reach maturity, whichever happens first.

(Campbell will answer only representative questions of general interest in this column.)

SAN FRANCISCO 12A —

The State Court of Appeal reversed a Monterey County court Friday which barred the United Farm Workers Union from picketing the Arrow Lettuce Corp. of Monterey and others.

The Superior Court forbade union picketing, organizing and other strike activities against Arrow and 21 other growers. The growers had claimed the Teamsters Union was sole bargaining agent for field workers since they had signed contracts with Teamsters.

But the appeal court ruled that "uncontradicted affidavits" showed that at the time the growers recognized the Teamsters "the Teamsters did not nor did they claim to represent any of the growers' field workers."

Pitfalls of drug effect on aged told by USC dean

By BEN ZINSER
Medical Science Editor

Medications may be responsible for some cases of profound depression and confusion seen in the elderly, a USC pharmacy educator said at a medical meeting in Los Angeles Friday.

Edward S. Brady, associate dean of the USC School of Pharmacy, added that such drug reactions can be prevented.

Brady, a Huntington Beach resident, was the first speaker in a two-day conference on "Drugs and the Elderly." The meeting is being sponsored by the USC Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center and the school of pharmacy in the Biltmore Hotel.

The elderly are particularly subject to adverse drug reactions for a variety of reasons, including general physiological slowdown and the chronic ailments of old age, Brady said.

"The usual action of certain drugs may be influenced by chronic disease states of older people," he stated. "Hence, usual dosages might not be appropriate to this age group."

"For instance, in cases of impaired kidney function, the patient might not be able to excrete drugs from his system as rapidly as he should."

"Or, certain enzyme systems of the older person's body, affected by the slowdown of aging, can greatly influence the results of drugs."

Brady said another problem is that the elderly are prone to self-medication.

"Unfortunately there are frequent examples of untoward results," Brady said.

"The elderly person with high blood pressure might be on a low-sodium diet. He takes antacids for stomach upsets or he takes laxatives. He is unaware that these over-the-counter (nonprescription) products can supply more than enough sodium to completely cancel out the benefits of his diet."

Brady continued:

"Most decongestants for colds or hay fever contain substances that can elevate blood pressure and increase blood-sugar levels. The latter is dangerous in the diabetic."

Brady said that many medications, including those that don't require a prescription, are sedatives or have a sedative component.

"Thus a patient who is taking tranquilizers, antihistamines and pain relievers at the same time can become the victim of drug-induced depression and confusion," he said.

Brady called on physicians, nurses and pharmacists to increase their monitoring of older patients' medications.

THE pitfalls of drug administration to older patients are many and complex, Brady said.

Older persons tend to use drugs more conscientiously than do their younger counterparts, but sometimes they tend to use medications longer after they are no longer needed. That's not only uneconomical but it's dangerous, Brady warned.

"When a patient who already is taking one or more medications adds other drugs to his routine at intervals, he becomes a likely candidate for adverse drug interactions," Brady explained.

Nehemiah on Watergate; Billy G's all-time crowd

From Nehemiah 8, King James Version: "And all the people gathered themselves together as one man into the street that was before the Water Gate; and they spake unto Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel. And Ezra the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men and women, and all that could hear with understanding... And he read therein before the street that was before the Water Gate from the morning until midday, before the men and the women, and those that could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law..."

get some farewell thoughts.

"DUTY BOUND," an hour long drama on amnesty for Vietnam war draft evaders produced by NBC in cooperation with the National Council of Churches Broadcasting and Film Commission, won the only Emmy awarded in the category of religious programming.

The program presented all sides of the question, it is said, and then put the question to viewers. More than 19,000 responded and the results and analysis will be broadcast Sunday over NBC.

successful released time religious education programs, which were held this year in cooperation with 46 elementary schools of the Long Beach Unified School District. Fourth and fifth graders received graduation certificates before parents and friends, and in some cases gave demonstrations of what they had learned.

Next January will mark the 30th anniversary of the program. In trailblazing fashion, the Roman Catholics, Protestant Evangelicals and local Council of Churches co-sponsor the voluntary program through an interfaith committee.

WE DON'T TELL you this just because we are the press. Just the facts, ma'am. The Southern Baptist Press Association, meeting in Biloxi, Miss. for its annual get together, adopted a resolution protesting any restrictions of freedom of the press, declaring that "the full and free sharing of information is essential for any self-governing society."

The editors of Baptist state papers across the entire country noted that "there are warnings on the national horizon that restrict free flow of information."

This stance goes back deep into Baptist history and tradition, always wary of excessive central power chipping away at American freedoms.

One of the most interesting, and instructive, talks at the meeting was by former Southern Baptist Convention president Wayne Dehoney. Speaking as a pastor, he told the editors what his church, Walnut Street Baptist of Louisville, has been doing about the central city and race questions.

When Doherty came to the church five years ago, a commitment was made to stay downtown and minister to the racially mixed community, to build a fellowship of believers across racial, social and economic lines.

Doherty brought in a full time minister of social work as a priority item. Some of things they did: a thrift shop with clothing at almost no cost for the poor; a food closet and commissary kept filled by church members who fill up dozens of barrels; a "help" office that refers people with problems to social agencies and individuals who can help them; a tutoring program, a recreation building to provide free opportunity for sports and fun; a drug rehabilitation house, a bus ministry and a television ministry in which Pastor Doherty does a "hard sell" urging other Christians to come to the church and get involved helping people.

One result? Almost half the persons baptized by the church this year are black. About 100 black people regularly attend Sunday school, and half the folks in the recreation program are black.

Doherty smilingly told the editors that he never called what the church did "social action," just ministry and evangelism. "The problem," he said, "is often one of terminology. We found the laymen ready and anxious to get involved with programs dealing with social problems, but we don't call it social action."

Intrauterine device firms probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration disclosed Friday that it has begun an extensive investigation of firms manufacturing intrauterine contraceptive devices (IUDs) in the wake of various reports of medical complications.

But FDA officials, in their second day of testimony before a House subcommittee, said the agency needs new legislative authority to regulate effectively the mushrooming medical devices industry.

Larry R. Pilot, director of compliance in the FDA's Office of Medical Devices, said the first inspection completed this year resulted in the seizure last Friday of 9,000 Majzlin Springs from Anka Research Ltd., Jamaica, N.Y., and a request for recall of all outstanding stocks.

Similar inspections have been ordered elsewhere, he said.

The FDA estimates that more than three million American women have received IUDs, which are inserted into the uterus to prevent pregnancy, and that about 30 types of IUDs are marketed in this country. The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists had defended IUDs as being safe and effective in comparison with the alternative.

FDA officials testified that their inspection program had been initiated before the House intergovernmental relations subcommittee opened hearings on IUDs this week. But they conceded that congressional interest may have accelerated the action.

Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., subcommittee chairman, noted that although physicians had been reporting problems with the Majzlin Spring for years, the FDA did not crack down until more than 100,000 had been inserted and about a year after production had stopped.

"This action didn't come until the Majzlin device had run its course," Fountain said. "At that point, the damage had already been done and women had been needlessly injured."

FDA officials replied that, under limited authority now available to them, they were unable to document earlier complaints that the Majzlin Spring was more dangerous than other IUDs.

An FDA official who reviewed the Anka inspection report April 10, had reported that there had been at least 77 complaints to the firm involving "difficult removals, uterine perforations, pregnancies, expulsion, pain and excessive bleeding."

Mental care goal 'to take time'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Reagan administration plans to phase out state mental hospitals may be a good idea, but not until after a lot of time and money have been invested in local facilities to fill the gap, experts told a special Senate committee Friday.

"Even though we are not ready for state hospital closure now, the goal of working toward the day when community services will be able to handle all retarded persons is laudable," said Dr. Richard Koch, director of the Los Angeles Regional Center for treating the mentally retarded.

Koch was one of four directors of regional center directors who testified before a hearing of the Senate Select Committee on Proposed Phaseout of State Hospitals.

"At present, state hospitals are desperately needed... With additional funding, trained staff and time, I believe the community can probably develop the kinds of facilities that could serve similar clients to those now in state hospitals, but it will take time, money and much dedication to do this. Perhaps it will take 10 to 15 years," Koch said.

Koch and the other directors told the committee that development of local facilities could improve treatment and care but not as a budget-cutting program.

"It is axiomatic that a good community program would not cost less than a good state hospital program," Koch said.

"There, the money being spent on any client in a state hospital now should precede him into a community placement center, rather than lag behind, as occurs now."

The regional centers run by Koch and the others are independent, nonprofit facilities, under contract with the state for screening the mentally retarded and coordinating their care and treatment.

For a mentally retarded patient to be admitted to a state hospital, he must be referred there by a regional center.

Appeal set on disability for pregnancy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The state of California will appeal a U.S. District Court ruling giving women disability payments for pregnancy, says the state insurance program's head.

A law prohibiting the payments for pregnancy and pregnancy-related illness was held unconstitutional by a three-judge panel voting 2-1 Thursday.

"This ruling will bust the disability insurance program within a year if the contributions by six million Californians are not increased," Dwight M. Geduldig, director of the state Department of Human Resources, said.

Pregnancy coverage would cost $120 million under the program, Geduldig estimated. He said the program currently costs $375 million, with a $45 million surplus.

The suit, filed as a class action by a number of women, contends that more than 200,000 state women are denied pregnancy disability payments under a California Unemployment Benefit Code. U.S. Circuit Court Judge Ben Duniway and U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso Zirpoll signed the court's majority opinion in the ruling, with U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams dissenting.

Interview with local delegate

Presbyterian lost in COCU vote, hails Assembly spirit

By LES RODNEY

A self-styled "conservative" Long Beach Presbyterian pastor, who voted against rejoining the Consultation on Church Union, came home from the General Assembly in Omaha full of enthusiasm for his denomination.

Even though the Assembly, by a vote of 452 to 259, moved to rejoin the nine-church COCU deliberations which it left last year!

Rev. Dale M. Robinson, pastor for the last decade at Westminster Community Presbyterian Church on Pacific Avenue near 24th Street, a commissioner (delegate) for the first time, feels that the spirit of democracy in action and reconciliation after differences has something important to say to the country as a whole.

"I am more optimistic about the church and about America after this experience in Omaha," he said in an interview this week.

THE TALL, youthful looking 47-year-old minister has made an impact in Southern California as a campaigner against pornography, speaking on TV and radio forums. In his own church, his ministry has been marked by many-sided involvement with the community, good ecumenical relations with neighboring Catholic, Brethren and Salvation Army churches, and an openness to leadership by young people and women, exemplified two years ago by election of a 17-year-old girl as an elder.

The considerable opposition in the Assembly to rejoining COCU, Robinson said, was broader than the opposition by the denomination's "loyal opposition," the strongly conservative Presbyterian Lay Committee.

Asked to define his own position on the so-called liberal-conservative spectrum, Robinson replied, "I consider myself a conservative theologically and practically. And my deep conviction is that the spirit of God is calling His church to oneness."

Why then vote against rejoining the COCU talks which proclaim that same end?

"The timing is bad," he said. "My feeling is that if we're in we should commit ourselves to it, but here for the first time in the history of our church we're engaged in the major task of reorganizing ourselves. We face an attrition rate in which we lost 104,000 members last year, we were hurt in national mission, and we are working on re-unification with the Southern Presbyterians."

Plus, he added, popular misgivings about COCU's plan of union.

THE RESOLUTION which passed did contain a qualifying provision that the action was not to be interpreted as an endorsement of the plan, it was noted, and COCU itself seems to be responding to grass roots sentiment by stressing local cooperation first rather than union at the top. (Other denominations in the deliberations are the United Methodists, Episcopalians, Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, United Church of Christ, Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the A.M.E., A.M.E. Zion, and C.M.E.)

"Yes, most people feel we are up to our ears in structure," Robinson said. "Up to now COCU has stressed structure. People are weary of it. An emphasis on mission, this is where churches can unite."

"Can that feeling pre-

'Example of Democracy'

vail in COCU? If it doesn't, if it goes back to structure, it's doomed. But since the Assembly did vote to go back into the talks, I'll give it everything I've got. It was a good debate and a beautiful example of democracy. We can agree to disagree, then majority rules. It's the Presbyterian tradition."

As a youth-conscious pastor, Robinson added this: "As you know, we had youth voting for the fourth year, and they voted 80-20 in favor of COCU."

The young people, he pointed out, also were mostly for the successful candidate for moderator, Rev. Clinton M. Marsh, who beat out the veteran leader Eugene Carson Blake, among others.

"Generally," he said, "the Assembly as a whole wasn't too far from the thinking and feeling of the young people, though they also favored some things the Assembly didn't buy."

And the Assembly, he said, "showed a deep concern for equal opportunities for women. It took the posture that it's about time the church addressed itself to this, in seminary training, and in employment, ordained and unordained."

In addition to having boasted the youngest elder, Westminster Community is pleased that the current clerk of its session is 21-year-old Mrs. Jody Harris. She's a pre-theologian student who graduated cum laude from Long Beach State. Her husband, Terry, now in law school, edits the church newspaper.

RATHER THAN particular issues, it was the general spirit of the Assembly that enthused Rev. Robinson.

"This was an experience I wish I'd had when I was younger," he said. "It's great to be part of such an Assembly. If our country were run as well, we could solve many things, even Watergates."

Since the churches ARE a vital part of America, his upgraded view of the church's caliber automatically raises his hopes for the country.

"People don't realize what such an Assembly is really like," he mused.

"They hear about the divisions, not about the spirit that transcends the small things we get heated about, things we get hurt over. There is the ability to address ourselves with open heart and Christian love and feeling to working things out."

"This Assembly says that every person, regardless of who he is, is a valuable human being in God's sight, equally entitled to be exposed to God's grace. If we say Christ died for all, it means every person has a welcome mat spread out."

HE ILLUSTRATED the tone of the Assembly by relating the hot debate over the uniting of three Eastern synods into one new regional synod, a motion which squeaked through by a vote of 353 to 344.

"When the vote was announced, one of the leaders of the opposition to the motion stood up and said they had fought a good fight and lost, and now, he said, 'as far as we are concerned in New Jersey we accept the decision and will make ours the best synod in the country.' Everybody stood up and cheered, the emotion was profound. I heard a woman say that if she was near that man she would have hugged him and kissed him."

"When I see how reconciliation can take place after we have aired our differences, this to me is the gospel of love."

'Tongues' discussed by Baptist

The controversial question of the place of "speaking in tongues" in Christian life will be dealt with for four days starting Sunday by a visiting theologian at Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave.

Dr. Donald W. Burdick, professor of New Testament at Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary of Denver, and author of the book "Tongues: To Speak or Not to Speak," will discuss charismatic gifts Sunday at 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. He will continue the theme Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., as well as holding 10:30 a.m. sessions those three days.

The public is invited to attend any and all of the sessions.

No material can be considered for publication in the religion section if it is not received by noon on Thursday.

New Lutheran prexy

Social issues held vital even if unpopular

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Churches with a sense of mission must be involved in social issues, even though a few may be unpopular with some members, says the new president of the American Lutheran Church.

"Any time the church in any way gets into controversial subjects, there is a rumbling," Dr. David W. Preus said in an interview. "But by and large, in the ALC there is a developing maturity that says we need to be in all areas of life."

"The gospel is for the whole of society. We won't always be right, and we'll make mistakes, but we at least need to try to minister to all of society, as well as the church itself."

Dr. Preus gave his views on the eve of his induction Thursday as president of the 2.5-million member ALC at Zumbro Lutheran Church at Rochester, Minn. It was the opening event of the four-day convention of the ALC's Southeastern Minnesota District.

He succeeds Dr. Kent Knutson, who died earlier this year after a prolonged illness.

The 51-year-old church official acknowledged that ALC headquarters had taken some "heat" from individuals and congregations because of support of the American Indian Movement.

ALC has been donating $12,000 a year to AIM out of some $800,000 it allocated to all Indian causes. But after the AIM-led takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D., the ALC Board of Social Services decided to reallocate that $12,000 through the National Indian Lutheran Board administered by the three major Lutheran denominations.

Dr. Paul Boe, executive director of the board, was one of the churchmen at Wounded Knee who counseled with Indians who held the village 70 days.

The ALC president said, "We're not about to stand in support of violent efforts to adjust inequities. We're committed to positive efforts for establishing justice."

The veteran of 23 years as a parish pastor has long been an advocate of clergymen participating in civic and community affairs. As a member of the Minneapolis School Board he has spoken zealously for integration in a city where blacks are a small minority and many whites resist busing and other efforts to end de facto segregation.

He also has served on the United Fund Board, City Planning Commission, City Board of Estimate and Taxation, Minneapolis Urban Coalition, Minnesota School Boards Association and several other agencies.

REPORT SUNDAY

Delegates to the United Presbyterian General Assembly in Omaha from the local Los Ranchos Presbytery will report on the Assembly Sunday starting 4 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church of Fullerton. There were four elders and four ministers delegated from Los Ranchos.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Personal relations

A reader writes: "One suggestion which you made in your writings has done me a lot of good. At first it didn't grab me at all. But when I tried practicing, it worked and I'm sure glad I tried it. It's that idea about shooting prayers at people."

And what does that strange suggestion mean? Well, the thing which this reader found so beneficial in his personal relations is not something I invented. A man who really got along well with people told me first about his practice of "shooting prayers." I have personally practiced this technique and have recommended it to others and almost always it gets men on a good wave length with other people. Here is how it works:

WHEN YOU SEE someone looking worried and unhappy, or someone in a surly temper, you "shoot" at that person a silent prayer that peace and blessings may be his. This prayerful bombardment may be directed at individuals you deal with on the job, at strangers you pass on the street, at members of your family or anyone you encounter who is noticeably down, agitated or antagonistic. And you are likely to be rewarded now and then with some interesting sign that you have scored a real hit. The troubled human being whom you have taken as your prayer target may suddenly brighten up, or visibly relax, or maybe turn and look at you questioningly, as though asking, "Hey what did you do to me?"

And if you make "prayer-shooting" a daily pursuit you stand to reap a further reward. My reader explained the benefit in his case by saying: "It helped get me out of myself and doing that helped me win some personality battles with myself. In fact it has helped me be a much better individual." That is to say that shooting prayers at people seemingly tends to stimulate the release of personal potential.

That this simple practice improves relationships between people is illustrated by a personal experience. Once in Houston, Texas, I was speaker at an annual Chamber of Commerce dinner at which a couple of thousand people attended. Out in the audience I happened to notice a man staring at me. This seemed strange as I did not know him at all. But somehow I picked up his ill-will. Though of course I did not understand what it was all about I "shot a prayer" at him—sending toward him a genuine good will thought.

When I was greeting people on the platform after my talk, a man clapped me on the shoulder from behind and looking around to my surprise it was the fellow who had glared at me.

"DO YOU KNOW something," he asked, "before your talk I didn't like you. Of course, I had never met you but I just don't like ministers period. And I was annoyed that they had to go and get one to talk to our Chamber of Commerce dinner. But when you looked at me something seemed to pass between us. Probably only my imagination, but anyway I figured I should give you a chance. You aren't so bad after all!" He grinned and clapped me again on the back.

Prayer "shooting" won't always get such immediate and obvious results but it certainly can improve the climate of better personal relations. And you don't need to "shoot" prayers either. Just beaming goodwill and kindly thoughts toward people will produce the same results. If we go around thinking right thoughts about our associates chances are we will get into right relationships with them. And that is worth a big try.

2 Religion courses at L.B. State

The Religious Studies Program of Long Beach State University will offer to the serious and casual student of religion, two three-unit courses, Religion and Contemporary Social Problems and The Religious Personality. They will be held consecutively June 18 until July 27, from 9 to 10:30 a.m. and from 10:30 a.m. to noon daily. Both of these courses will be taught by Dr. George L. Haines, a professor in the Religious Studies Program.

Religion and Contemporary Social Problems will attempt to explore the contributions that religion can make to social ethics. Topics to be discussed include an array of current social problems such as Capital Punishment, Civil Disobedience, Sex and Society, Population Control and Freedom of the News Media. The second class, The Religious Personality, will deal with the religious contributions to the structuring of the personality. It will explore human needs such as loneliness, disorientation, and a lack of meaning and purpose and will discuss ways in which religion can help meet these needs.

No formal application for admission nor transcripts are required to register in the summer session.

Methodist, Presbyterians combine for choir robes

What's the difference between Methodists and Presbyterians? Next Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10, it'll be in antiphonal response as the choirs of two area churches combine for identical benefit concerts with proceeds going for new choir robes.

Los Altos Methodist of Long Beach and First Presbyterian of Westminster are blending their talents, under the direction of husband-wife team Alan and Judith Caddick, in a rich program including Bach's exciting antiphonal Motet Number 5, "Come Jesu Come" and "Toward the Unknown Region," an extended chorus by Ralph Vaughn Williams. Thompson, Handel, Lewis, Brahms and Peeters will also be represented.

On Saturday, the concert will be held at Westminster Church, 7702 Westminster Ave., 7:30 p.m., with a free will offering. Sunday, at Los Altos, 5950 E. Willow St., with a $1 donation asked.

Compton Mass for new priest

Rev. William Dean Dohman, son of the late Albert Dohman and Mrs. Katherine Dohman of Compton, will celebrate his first Mass Sunday, 12:15 p.m. at Our Lady of Victory Church of Compton. He will be ordained today at the church.

Father Dohman was educated at Immaculate Heart College, St. Johns Major Seminary and Mount Angel Seminary. He taught for eight years at Salesian High School of Los Angeles, whose principal, Rev. Ralph J. Murphy, will deliver the sermon. A reception will follow the Mass.

Prefer early hour

A survey at Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, 1900 E. Carson St., showed that 82 per cent favored a 9 a.m. worship hour on Sunday to give them a longer day with their families and for summer activities, so the new schedule goes into effect this Sunday through Sept. 2, reports Pastor J. Bernhard Brethheim.

DR. FRANK COLLINS

Dr. Elmer Towns, internationally known speaker and writer, will be the special guest speaker at Calvary this Sunday night. Dr. Towns is the author of such books as "America's Fastest Growing Churches," "The World's Largest Sunday Schools" and is contributing editor to several magazines, among them Christian Life.

June 17 is Anniversary Sunday and this pastor will be observing 10 wonderful years as pastor of Calvary. The famous Weatherford Quartet will be with us for the entire day, and we are expecting one of the really great days in the history of the church.

Every Sunday is special at Calvary. This Sunday is the culmination of the Good Shepherd Campaign and we anticipate an upsurge in attendance after a slight drop over the past weekend due to the holiday. (attendance 1171). This Sunday we need YOU to reach back up into the 1500 bracket.

There may be a reason why so many people faithfully attend Calvary! Come and see! Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

is God A STRANGER TO YOUR child?

He needn't be. In the Christian Science Sunday School, children learn that God is not a stranger, but a close friend. Through weekly Bible Lessons they learn to turn to His all-embracing love for protection and help. They are prepared to meet each day's problems successfully. Bring your child to our Sunday School this week. We'd love to welcome him.

GAS

companies have not told us is that at the same time this decline occurred, there has been more than a 20 per cent increase in the stockpile of unfinished oils."

Moretti said the oil companies should explain "why stockpiles of unfinished oils are increasing so dramatically in relation to the decreasing gasoline stockpile."

"Why," he asked "are the unfinished oil stockpiles higher now than at this time last year?" The gas shortage has caused power plants to switch to oil.

Hartley insisted there was a gasoline shortage but that it was not critical and there would be enough gasoline for basic purposes.

He said the shortage situation probably would get worse in 1974 because the Environmental Protection Agency has ordered lead-free gasoline production starting July 1, 1974. The lead-free gas will be used in new cars equipped with catalytic (smog control) devices.

The lead-free gasoline refinery equipment will not add anything to overall production, Hartley said. More crude oil will be required for the same amount of refined products, he contended.

He said the Legislature could encourage solution by reducing driving speed limits and making sure environmental regulations were based on a weighing of economic costs, energy requirements and social factors.

Hartley said gasoline demand has been boosted by record new car sales, more driving, and higher consumption because of smog control equipment.

He said Union Oil was producing 300 million more gallons this year than three years ago and has reached physical refining limits. But it now has to limit gasoline supplies for its customers.

ON the supply side, he said, environmental restrictions have barred use of coal in electric power production.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., said Friday in Washington there was evidence that the fuel shortage was resulting in black market profiteering and anticompetitive effects in the oil industry.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, Findley urged that the FBI conduct a thorough investigation of these illegal sales.

"The fact that many small and independent oil dealers are being forced out of business, and the anticompetitive effect this may have upon the oil retailing industry, in my opinion, should also command your attention," Findley wrote.

In San Diego, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said oil companies were probably taking advantage of the legitimate fuel shortage to further their own ends.

CRANSTON said in an interview the decline in oil refinery construction has been caused in part by environmental restrictions on the refineries themselves and uncertainty over future antipollution standards for gasoline. He said the resulting shortages don't appear to have been deliberately planned.

"I haven't seen any signs of a conspiracy," he said.

But Cranston added, "The oil companies may be taking advantage of the situation to boost their own goals, to push out some independents, to get offshore drilling and the Alaska pipeline."

In Honolulu, the First Insurance Co. ordered all employees who do not need their cars during working hours to find other transportation to work, and in Seattle, police officers have been ordered to park their cars at least one hour of each shift and walk their beats, in order to conserve gasoline.

In Geneva, meanwhile, petroleum exporting countries and Western oil firms signed an agreement late Friday night raising the price of oil in their transactions by 11.9 per cent. The U.S. was not a party to the agreement.

Bridge over troubled waters

Anguished Gilbert Sandoval, 42, clings to beams Friday on Gerald Desmond bridge's peak — 180 feet above harbor waters — as Long Beach Fire Capt. Bob Guyette reaches out to pull him to the safety of the "snorkel" ladder and Fireman Harold Basler waits to help. Authorities said Sandoval, of 1948 W. Lincoln Ave., Long Beach, was distraught because he has been unemployed since being injured in an industrial explosion a year ago, and because his wife left him last month. Sandoval was transported to Metropolitan State Hospital for observation.

Secret Senate budget meeting called a mistake

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, meeting behind doors barred to newsmen and the public, Friday approved a $9.2 billion budget, nearly $80 million less than requested by Gov. Reagan.

The action, in private, was in apparent violation of the Legislature's rules requiring public committee meetings when votes are taken.

Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, chairman of the committee, said later, "we made a mistake."

Collier, dean of the Legislature, ordered the "executive session" of the committee.

He told newsmen the budget bill (SB80) approved by the committee was $79.9 million less than the $9.3 billion requested by Reagan. The Assembly has passed a $9.4 billion proposed budget.

Under the Senate version, $69.5 million for Medi-Cal and $29 million for welfare was trimmed from the spending proposal. Collier said Medi-Cal was reduced because of an anticipated decrease in the number of persons expected to use the program as the result of federal legislation.

He said only enough welfare funds were provided to support the program until the end of the year. Collier declared the action was taken to "signal" the federal government the state wanted prompt action on new welfare regulations affecting California which have not yet been issued.

He said that if more funds are needed, the Reagan administration can ask for them later.

The budget bill is expected to be voted on by the full Senate next week. The final version, which will go to the governor, will be written in a closed door conference committee which will iron out differences between the Senate bill and the Assembly's $9.4 billion budget proposal.

Collier said the private vote on the budget was taken "unintentionally, inadvertently and without thinking."

2 charged in conspiracy to murder civil suit witnesses

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

An attorney at Fullerton and a Garden Grove man were arrested Friday on charges of conspiring to murder witnesses in civil suits filed against the lawyer in the Santa Ana Superior Court.

Michael C. Remington, 33, the attorney, who lives at 2540 College Place, and Gary Rollo, 20, of 11750 Euclid St., were charged with five counts of conspiracy and solicitation to commit murder.

Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. James Enright, of Orange County, said that Remington was president of Cal Vending Company of Fullerton, which marketed vending machines and which had been involved in suits alleging violations of sales contracts.

He identified Rollo as a man hired for a campaign of terror.

Remington was booked into the Orange County Jail, Santa Ana, under $300,000 bail and lost a plea Friday afternoon for reduction of the bond demand. Rollo is being held in Anaheim City Jail under $200,000 bail.

Enright claimed that the two allegedly plotted the injury or murder of persons who had sued Remington's firm or were to be witnesses.

None of the persons so "marked" was injured, however, although Enright claimed that there were attempts against them. He would not elaborate.

The alleged attempts were made against Teresa Blevel and Bridget Milla, both of Cypress, who settled a $14,000 suit against Remington on April 30; against Al Fehlin, 42, of Yorba Linda, who settled a suit for $11,000 on May 22; and Ned De Lancy, 30, of Orange, who was identified as a witness in a trial set for July 16.

The prosecutor also disclosed that Remington and Rollo and two other men, who are being sought, will be charged with conspiracy in connection with an attack on a couple in their residence at Cucamonga. Enright said that these people, whom he did not identify, also had sued Remington.

Remington is due for arraignment Monday in the Santa Ana Municipal Court. Rollo is scheduled for arraignment Tuesday.

There were four civil suits filed in Superior Court against the Cal Vending Company and Remington as its president. All involve complaints that the company either violated sales contracts by not delivering vending machines on order or supplied inferior products.

White House master plan for domestic intelligence gathering, Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities, who has seen it, expressed shock. He said Thursday that the plan and its contents "would be a great shock to the American people if they were released."

THE SENATOR said he interpreted the papers as "an effort or a plan to set up an operation to spy on the American people in general, or at least on those who didn't agree with the administration."

Sources close to Dean have said that the former presidential lawyer feels that certain portions of the documents, which he originally placed in the safety deposit box of an area bank, would implicate Nixon in some aspects of the Watergate scandal.

But Ervin, D-N.C., told newsmen in Winston-Salem, N.C. Thursday that he had not yet seen anything in the plan that supported Dean's alleged belief. Ervin did say, however, that "those making this plan had the same mentality employed by the Gestapo in Nazi Germany."

He added that he would ask federal intelligence officials to look over the documents "to see what should not be released," but that most of them could probably be made public by the committee.

THE FBI's investigation is focusing on two principal areas: the September, 1971, burglary of the Los Angeles office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist, and a series of four break-ins in 1971 and 1972 at the offices and residences of Chilean diplomats here and in New York City.

E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former member of the special investigations unit who pleaded guilty in the Watergate bugging case, has told a federal grand jury that he and G. Gordon Liddy directed the unsuccessful attempt to steal Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

Liddy, convicted in the Watergate trial in January, was also a member of the special investigations unit.

In his statement Nixon described the unit as a small group at the White House whose principal purpose was to stop security leaks — they were nicknamed "plumbers" — and to investigate other sensitive security matters.

THERE have been reports that Liddy and Hunt also supervised the tapping of telephones used by two reporters for the New York Times after the newspaper published parts of the Pentagon Papers in June, 1971, and that some of the "plumbers" conducted other covert operations, including break-ins, against the Berrigan brothers, the Black Panther Party and the Chicago Seven while they were involved in federal criminal proceedings.

One high-ranking Justice Department official, asked whether it appeared that portions of the 1970 intelligence plan had been put into effect in any of these cases, replied, "That's a conclusion you can certainly draw from what they (the administration) recommended (in the plan) and what they did."

Another official discounted reports that the top-secret intelligence

Busch denies Cox asked probe delay

Associated Press

Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch returned to Los Angeles from a meeting with Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox Friday and denied that Cox had ever asked him to delay or abandon the local grand jury probe into the break-in into Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist office.

Busch said the grand jury would begin hearing testimony on schedule next Tuesday and that he has been assured by Cox that any jailed witnesses needed would be made available to appear in Los Angeles.

Responding to questions about a report Cox had tried to discourage Busch's probe, the district attorney told reporters at a press conference, "He did not."

Busch indicated that he and Cox had been in agreement on most of the issues they discussed. "We don't want to work at odds with anybody," he said.

evaluation committee, which Nixon established after the 1970 plan was rescinded "because of opposition from the late J. Edgar Hoover, had played any part in the plan's resurrection."

In related developments:

—The FBI acknowledged Friday that its agents had investigated the offices of a Washington radical newspaper without a search warrant in early 1969, but denied that the action was an illegal break-in as reported Thursday in the New York Times. A spokesman for the bureau said that the search of the offices of the Washington Free Press was conducted at the invitation of the building manager, who had evicted the newspaper for nonpayment of rent.

—Testimony indicated that former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman had a role in getting the CIA to prepare a memorandum detailing White House contacts with the agency, and succeeded in keeping his own name out of the document.

The moves by Ehrlichman were disclosed amid a growing controversy over his vigorous denial that it was he who called the CIA to seek its aid for a national security project assigned to Hunt.

The man he allegedly called — former CIA Deputy Director Robert E. Cushman Jr. — disclosed Thursday the minutes of a CIA top-level staff meeting on July 8, 1971, to prove that Ehrlichman had been the caller the day before.

Cushman reacted to Ehrlichman's testimony, under oath before a Senate subcommittee on Wednesday, that he did not have the "faintest recollection" of ever making such a call.

The call figures dominantly in the revelations about a memo on White House approaches to the CIA.

Governor vetoes IQ test curbs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan vetoed a bill Friday curbing IQ testing and signed another regulating animal experiments.

The vetoed measure by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr. would have sharply restricted the administration of scholastic aptitude tests in public schools. In his veto message, Reagan said he felt the bill "kills aptitude testing, rather than preventing its misuse."

6 cons tossed out of court

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — The "San Quentin Six," a half dozen convicts charged with slaying three guards and two inmates in a 1971 escape attempt, were tossed out of court Friday for shouting and screaming.

Marin County Superior Court Judge Henry Bradock sent them to a holding cell for being "obstreperous and boisterous" during a hearing on pretrial motions.

The yelling began after a guard took a pen from defendant Hugo Pinnell, who was taking notes. The other five defendants started complaining and the judge ordered them all removed to the holding cell, where they periodically shouted and pounded on walls.

FIERY SHIP ABANDONED

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — The tanker Lagos Erie was rocked by an explosion Friday night and abandoned by her crew as she drifted in flames off the Virginia coast.

Five crewmen were reported injured and were evacuated by Coast Guard helicopters. Four were reported suffering from burns and the fifth had a broken leg.

It was not immediately determined how many men were aboard but a Coast Guard spokesman said similar tankers generally carry at least 30 crewmen.

Arthritis research grant awarded to L.B. hospital

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A grant of $250,000 has been awarded to Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach to establish an Arthritis Research Center, hospital officials announced Friday.

The grant will also fund the first three years of a proposed $421,000 five-year research program into the causes of arthritis and rheumatic diseases.

Announcement of the new research center was made jointly by Harry Aggers, chairman of the hospital board of directors; Henry Clock, chairman of Memorial and Children's Foundation; and three spokesmen for the Rheumatic Diseases Research Foundation, which made the grant. Officials of the research foundation are Raymond Gillingham, chairman, and board members Dr. Calvin Lauer and Travis Montgomery.

Memorial spokesmen said the grant was the largest research award the hospital has ever received.

The Rheumatic Diseases Research Foundation, which is headquartered in Long Beach, supports significant research projects and educational programs in Southern California.

Dr. Arthur Lorber, nationally known rheumatologist and associate professor of medicine at USC, will head the research team which will conduct both basic research and comprehensive clinical studies.

Arthritis affects 250,000

new victims each year in the United States.

New methods of patient treatment will be part of the center's program.

Other investigators who will be affiliated with the center are Dr. Marcel Nimni, biochemist and pharmacologist and associate professor of medicine and biochemistry at USC, and Dr. Werner Baumgartner, clinical assistant professor of biomedical chemistry at USC.

Arthritis is often thought of as one disease, yet the term encompasses more than 30 different types of joint diseases, Dr. Lorber said. The most commonly known forms are rheumatoid arthritis and osteoarthritis.

The disorder can arise as side effects of a number of diseases, including tuberculosis, syphilis, gonorrhea, and viral diseases such as measles, influenza and strep throat.

About 17 million persons in the United States have some form of arthritis or rheumatism, one of the chief causes of chronic disability.

Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis alone has affected about 175,000 children in the United States.

In addition to causing severe crippling disability, rheumatic diseases also cause injury to the connective tissues and various organs.

Dr. Lorber said that there were basically four types of arthritis: traumatic, including the "wear and tear" type; inflammatory, such as rheumatoid; infectious, which can result from any type of "bug"; and metabolic, such as gout.

An extensive resource materials section on arthritis and related disorders will be established in Memorial's medical library.

The center will provide educational programs for the medical staff, including rheumatology training for interns and residents. And informational programs will be presented to the public periodically.

Assisting in the direction of the research program will be Memorial's recently organized rheumatic diseases research council.

Members include Dr. Lavane Sanson, internist, chairman; Dr. Robert Frankenfeld, chief of medicine; Dr. Julian Knutson, internist; Dr. John Anderson, radiologist; Dr. E. R. Jennings, director of pathology; Dr. Bernard Michela, director of rehabilitation medicine; Dr. Francis Thornton and Dr. Lee Wiltse, orthopedic surgeons; Dr. Ray Bouch, chief of general practice; and Dr. S. Ede, director of medical education.

Benefit gala set tonight for L.B. 'Olympics'

A Loser's Benefit for the Long Beach Western Special Olympics will be held today at 8 p.m. at Webb Center, 835 Locust Ave., Long Beach.

Proceeds from the dinner-dance, which will be sponsored by the Lakewood-Long Beach Active 20 30 Club, will go to the Special Olympics organization and the club's youth activity fund.

The Western Special Olympics is an annual series of competitive athletic events for retarded children in the Long Beach area.

A club spokesman said only 150 tickets are available and the donation is $25 per couple. Tickets will be available at the door. Attire for the evening is cocktail dress, dinner is from 8 to 10 p.m., dancing from 9 to 1.

Scout-O-Rama '73 slated today at LBSU

Scout-O-Rama '73, an extravaganza of Boy Scouts' crafts, demonstrations and competition, will be held from 1 to 6 p.m. today on the Long Beach State University campus, Bellflower Boulevard and Atherton Street.

The annual event, sponsored by the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, will feature more than 7,000 scouts.

Scouting officials, who estimate attendance of more than 16,000, said members of the public may park free in the school lot just south of Atherton Street. Scout-O-Rama will be held on the football practice field just east of the parking lot.

In addition to giving the public a glimpse of scouting activities, the event, billed as the Showcase of Scouting, will provide members with an opportunity to share and discuss their scouting experiences, said a spokesman.

5-year plan to finish Cerritos projects set

By MARK CLUTTER
Staff Writer

A plan to complete all public projects in Cerritos within the next five years at a cost of $18.1 million without resorting to property taxes was presented by Mayor Frank D. Lee at a press conference Friday.

The plan, worked out in detail by the Cerritos city staff, will be discussed by citizens in a series of public study sessions to begin toward the end of June. A precise date has not yet been set.

The hearings will enable the City Council to draw up ballot proposals to be presented to the voters in a special election to be held sometime before the first of the year, Lee said.

"The population of Cerritos is expected to reach its peak of 65,000 before the end of the decade," Lee said. "If all projects can be completed before then, the city will have achieved its final form."

The bonds would be paid off over a 15-year period, he said.

The plan divides into three parts:

—Eight park projects costing a total of $3 million would be funded by general obligation bonds.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1973 SECTION C—Page C-1
MARKETS ON PAGES A-6, 7, 8

—Two reservoirs and a corporate city yard and some other work would cost $1.65 million and be funded by general obligation bonds.

—There are 14 proposed projects totaling $13.45 million to be carried out under the Redevelopment Agency. These include a new city hall, a stadium to be built jointly with the ABC Unified School District, a natatorium, two additional reservoirs, freeway buffers, street improvements, a day care center, a golf course and a number of other public works.

Lee emphasized that these proposals were open to change after the public has had its say. He expects considerable debate and controversy.

Some of them he considers imperative.

"The city, which has its own water system, must have more water," he said. "We now have only a 22-hour supply which would not be enough in case of a disaster."

"We must have a new city hall. Our present quarters are crowded and scattered in temporary structures. This is not good for morale and efficiency. And it is not fair to the public to have such a small council chamber. It should be at least three times this size."

Lee, an ardent advocate of parks, believes they should be completed to meet the needs of a growing population.

Cerritos has consistently opposed property taxes. Lee said they were especially unfair in rapidly growing city where the older residents must pay proportionately more for civic projects. Although there is no city property tax the average owner of a $40,000 home pays $1,000 a year in other taxes. The tax varies in different parts of the city. Some pay $960, others $1,100.

A utilities tax is being considered as a source of revenue, Lee said. Another source would be a sharply increased builder's fee which is now about $75 per home. In most cities the fee is much higher, he said.

"I believe the people will support this program if they understand it," Lee said. "The council as a body cannot campaign for an issue, but I as an individual intend to address every club and civic group in town. Cerritos is a sophisticated city with a high educational level. The people back projects that are worthwhile. While other cities were voting down bond issues Cerritos was passing them. People here want a city where life is good."

Some of the projects, such as a new city hall, could be obtained without approval of the electorate. "This is not our policy," Lee said. "We believe that the city should be governed by the will of the people."

Not everyone approves of the city hall. Some of its enemies have been circulating a vague rumor that the city government is on the verge of bankruptcy.

"This is absolutely false," Lee said. "There is ample money for all city services. We are in strong financial position to continue operating in the future as we are now."

Oil price hike to give state $12 million gain

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — State revenues from recent increases in crude oil prices will be increased by about $12 million next year, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy has announced.

More than $10 million of the increase will come from oil produced in the Long Beach tidelands.

Flournoy, chairman of the State Lands Commission, said in a report to the commission that on May 4 oil companies posting prices for the purchase of crude oil increased their offered prices 25 cents a barrel.

This will bring state oil revenues in 1973-74 up to approximately $80 million, he said.

Although more than 80 per cent of the state's oil revenue comes from the Long Beach tidelands, the City of Long Beach will not realize any added income from the price increase, Robert Pierce of the city Department of Oil Properties said.

That is because the city's yearly share of the revenues is fixed at 20 per cent or $9 million, whichever is higher. At present, the city is collecting $9 million each year, and its share does not figure to drop below that amount for some time, Pierce said.

Meanwhile, Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Public Domain, said the committee is continuing an inquiry into the adequacy of crude oil prices.

Prices paid in California are substantially lower than prices paid for crude oil elsewhere in the United States, Cory's committee was told at a hearing in April.

AJAY MARTIN JR.
Experience in Illinois

New student union chief at LBSU

Ajay Martin Jr., a former Illinois University administrator, has been appointed director of the student union at Long Beach State University, it was announced Friday.

Martin leaves a post as assistant director of the student union and director of educational services at Illinois State University, Normal.

Jack Shainline, LBSU dean of students, said Martin has taught and coached at the college level, coordinated a television program on campus life and worked with students at the secondary school level.

Martin and his wife, Betty Mae, have two children, Chrystal, 5, and Ajay, 3.

'Plane crash' to feature Downey disaster drill

By MIKE JELF
Staff Writer

A light plane will crash into Downey Public Library at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, injuring 20 high school students.

That's the scenario for the first field disaster drill to be held by Downey's Community Hospital, police and fire departments, school district, the local private ambulance service and local doctors.

The hospital has conducted "interior" preparedness drills before, but this is the first multi-agency drill to simulate transportation of disaster victims to the hospital.

While the plummeting plane will be imaginary, the victims are real. They are high school seniors enrolled in a medical occupations program sponsored by the school district and the hospital.

After the fictitious plane smashes into the nonfiction library, an imagined phone call from a nearby resident will dispatch a police car to the scene, a hospital spokesman said.

(As the police station is next door to the library, the response time for the police unit should be short.)

Police will then call the ambulance service and transport a doctor from the hospital to the disaster scene. Another police car will take up position at the hospital to provide a radio link between the hospital staff and those at the disaster scene.

Inside the hospital, extra supplies including drugs, linens, stretchers and directional signs will be taken to designated areas. Special rooms will be used for critical cases, moderate cases, and relatives of victims.

Hospital staff members, meanwhile, will set up radio contact with nearby hospitals so they can be prepared to handle any overload of patients.

Lions present 8 scholarships

Six students from Poly High School and two from Long Beach City College Friday were presented $200 scholarships by the Downtown Lions Club.

The club's 43rd annual student awards luncheon, held at the Lafayette, also honored 12 junior high school students for meritorious performance in vocational studies.

The awards were presented by Dr. Glenn D. Warwick, superintendent of industrial education for the Long Beach Unified School District.

The scholarship award winners were: Lucy Whitcomb and Albert Filibeck, both of City College, and Poly seniors Thomas Dale Freedland, Robin Kent, Mark Moline, Betty Buckner, John Sternberg and Barbara Woods.

Vocational award winners were, Frankie Meriwether, Gertha Hopkins, Michelle Brand, John Valenzuela, Frank Adkisson and Roger Moore, all of Franklin Junior High School, and Victoria Orozco, Sheri Sipes, Kathryn Kataoka, Gordon Gonyea, Mark Weld and Tracy Alred, of Washington Junior High.

It was the second year that vocational studies achievement was recognized along with academic excellence.

100 used city vehicles up for public auction

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

More than 100 used City of Long Beach vehicles will be sold Saturday, June 9, at the city's second public auction this year at the automotive garage, 2801 E. Willow St.

The vehicles include a dozen motorcycles, pickup trucks, two and four-door sedans and some special equipment such as a sweeper and a mobile welder.

The vehicles can be inspected at the automotive garage from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, June 7-8, and on the morning of the sale.

The passenger vehicles are mostly from the model years of the late 1960s, with mileage ranging from 23,000 to 65,800.

The sale will start at noon, and a 25-per-cent deposit in cash, or a cashier's or certified check must be made on each unit purchased. A bidder may, however, place a $500 deposit before the start of the sale to cover any quantity of purchases.

Balance of the purchase price is due on delivery, and all vehicles must be picked up and paid for within three days. If payment is made in full on the day of the sale, the vehicle and pink slip will be released to the buyer at that time.

All vehicles must be equipped with new smog emission control devices and a certification presented by the buyer to the Department of Motor Vehicles, along with the use tax on retail sales, when the vehicle is registered.

Clyde F. Seek, head of the city's central services division, emphasized that the city makes no warranty as to the condition of any vehicle sold, and reserves the right to reject any offer.

Puzzle of Friday, June 1, Solved

By Hank Ketchum

DENNIS THE MENACE

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Finds you set for a year of healthy self-interest. Increased earnings are probable. It's a challenge to find time for meditation. Relationships tend to volatile episodes requiring care. Today's imaginative natives follow many callings.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Without haste or waste, reach out to renew contact with old friends. Make the day a personal vacation from regular duties.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Do your share of the community's Sunday observances. Romance is strong and fresh. Your friends are in a mad rush to nowhere.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your energy sizzles everywhere, may get you in the middle. Any invitation to make easy money is a risk, not an investment.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): If your clothes are not quite right, give serious thought to replacement soon. It's a good pastime on a day of mild surprises.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Survey your family conditions this quiet Sunday. Leave driving to others, or proceed with care.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The more completely you leave the workweek behind you, the better. Avoid commitments. Meditation comes naturally.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be receptive, let life flow in a deep quiet tide. An unfortunate incident may put you into an unaccustomed role.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Pursuit of your goals can make this a most noteworthy Sunday. Achievements may include insight into yourself.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now you hear many touching stories of others' lives. Continue your pet hobbies and amusements in available moments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Meddling with family possessions upsets everybody — don't do it! Organize your routines a little at a time.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Let the spiritual factors of life guide you past all sorts of unproductive distractions. Avoid excess.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Spend time with loved ones. Although friends bustle about, you needn't. Avoid spending money.

Bryant wins 8th for S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ron Bryant doubled and scored the deciding run on a wild pitch in the eighth inning Friday night to become the National League's first eight-game winner as the San Francisco Giants defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1.

Bryant gave up four hits, struck out five and walked only two.

Willie McCovey hit his 11th homer of the year in the fourth to tie it and was at bat with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth when reliever Mac Scarce uncorked his wild pitch.

Bryant opened the eighth with a double and Bobby Bonds was walked intentionally. Tito Fuentes moved them along with a sacrifice and the bases became loaded when starter Wayne Twitchell hit Garry Maddox with his first pitch.

That brought on Scarce

Dodgers still have pitching staff — Sutton

By GORDON VERRELL Staff Writer

In the merry month of May the heretofore undistinguished batsmen of the Dodgers carried the club to a rousing 19-8 record.

Where, in heavens name, was the pitching staff?

We were getting so many runs," said an astonished but grateful Don Sutton, "that it was making our pitching staff look bad."

"But," he maintained again, following his five-hit, 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos Friday night, "we still have the best staff in the National League."

The victory was the Dodgers' seventh in a row, one short of their

ROSBURG RETIRES AT '81'

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — Bob Rosburg, the 1959 U.S. PGA champion from San Francisco, said Friday he would quit playing golf after failing to qualify for the third round of the French Open.

Rosburg, who now lives in St. Louis, shot an 81 in Friday's second round of the French Open after shooting an opening round 75 Thursday.

As he left the rain-soaked course, Rosburg said: "I'm quitting. I've been talking about it for a long time. I'm not playing well, and there's no sense in going out and shooting 75 and 76 — so this is it for me."

Talking to newsmen, the 46-year-old pro said: "I just want to get on the plane and go home."

When his wife, Eleanor, heard this in the clubhouse, she smiled and said: "I've heard this before. Bob has said it before, then cools down and thinks about it, and then plays again."

Blamed for botched 500 start Urge firing of Fengler

HASTINGS, Mich. (UPI) — Duane Glasgow, chief mechanic for auto racer Lee Kunzman and former mechanic for Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock, said Friday the chief steward of the 500, Harlan Fengler, should be fired.

"I think he should be replaced, to put it bluntly," Glasgow said.

Fengler and Tony Hulman, owner of the track, have come under attack in the wake of the rain-shortened 500 marred by two fiery crashes, the death of one driver, one crewman and injury to two other drivers and four fans.

Glasgow said the policy of starting cars three abreast with the starter at track level should be changed by putting the starter on a high platform as is done at other races.

"He (Fengler) is standing right down at the level of the cars and I don't know how he can determine whether they are lined up or not, but he thinks he can," Glasgow said.

Glasgow said another problem at Indianapolis is that it is the only race of the United States Auto

NEW YORK — Jerry DaVanon smiled brightly — not unlike a neon sign — and said it was worth the wait — the long, long, interminable wait.

For two months Jerry DaVanon has been only a rumor in the American League — a charter member of Angels Anonymous. He has been neither seen nor heard from. He is the 25th man on a 25-member team.

He is one of those types who do the funny little errands around the ball park. Sometimes he pitches batting practice. Sometimes he catches the warmup thrown between innings while the regular receiver puts on his gear. Sometimes he sits alone

Discuss rule changes

Faced with pressure from within the racing fraternity as well as without, the U.S. Auto Club agreed to call a special meeting today in Indianapolis to discuss possible rule changes.

Chisox ace knuckles under, 5-3

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George Scott drove in two runs with a home run and a double off Wilbur Wood, ruining the knuckleballer's bid for his 14th victory and powering the Milwaukee Brewers to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Friday night.

Wood, who had won five decisions in a row and 12 of his last 13, was shelled for 11 hits in five complete innings and took his fourth defeat.

The victory went to Chris Short (2-1), who gave up one run in six innings before being relieved by Skip Lockwood. It was Short's 300th major league start but first since Aug. 30, 1971.

Luis Alvarado singled in a Chicago run in the fifth, but the Brewers made it 4-1 in their half on a single by Pedro Garcia, a sacrifice, an RBI single by Dave May and Scott's run scoring double.

The Brewers filled the bases on three singles in the sixth, including bunts by Gorman Thomas and Garcia, and Tim Johnson chased Wood with a run-scoring single.

Other sports dangerous as '500'—Simon

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Comments pro and con continued to be heard in and out of the auto racing world concerning this year's Indianapolis "332.5" and next year's 500, following the tragedies that occurred here.

Two men were killed and two drivers and four fans were injured.

Driver Dick Simon, whose car sustained minor damage in a crash with the car driven by Salt Walther, talked about the dangers of other sports.

"How many people are killed in football, or laid up for life? Do they talk about banning it? No," Simon said. Simon, who is also a skier, added, "I've watched two people run into trees skiing and be killed. Nobody talked about banning skiing."

SIMON, A PARACHUTIST as well, said, "I've seen a man and a woman fall all the way to the ground. Do they talk about banning that? These people who talk about one or two incidents are seeking notoriety for themselves and not doing justice to the sport" which Simon calls "the greatest spectacle in sports."

Simon and fellow driver John Martin believe drivers need to use a little more common sense. "I think the wings cause a little bit of turbulence, but a driver — just like all pros — must adjust to the elements in which he is involved," Simon said. Martin added, "Fine them like two laps if they jump the start of the race, so they would have nothing to gain."

"We've got 10 times more safety factors in these cars than we used to. It used to be if you crashed you knew damn well you didn't have a chance. I don't know if drivers are losing respect for the actual dangers out there. I hope to God it wakes them up."

The Indianapolis News suggested that "a change in the method of starting the race also is needed since the cars are much wider now than when the three-car rows were established."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Middleweight champion CARLOS MONZON demanded assurances Friday that EMILE GRIFFITH will be given dope detection tests before and after the 15-round fight tonight in which Griffith will try to win a sixth world title.

The move seemed to be a psychological poke to upset Griffith, who was found by the French Boxing Federation to have used a "cold tablet" stimulant before fighting MAX COHEN to a draw in Paris in March. Griffith proved that the cold pill was prescribed by the official physician at the Palais des Sports in Paris, but he still received a symbolic two-month suspension in France. Tonight's fight is in Monte Carlo.

"The test business is fine with us," said GIL CLANCY, Griffith's manager. "If you're fighting your 23rd championship fight and going after your sixth title, you'll have to come up with a better psyche than that to shake my man."

BASEBALL Commissioner ROWIE KUHN says he favors limited interleague play in the major leagues, adding the likelihood of its adoption may have increased in recent years.

"You would have to put me down in favor of limited league play, somewhere in the area of six or eight games per team," Kuhn said. "Indications are National League members are very seriously considering it. I personally feel it has a chance of being adopted, possibly within a year or so."

A GROUP of American swimming stars, all of whom face suspension because Red China does not belong to any of the world's "reigning" swimming federations, will become the first U.S. cultural mission to enter China today.

The swimmers, who were selected because they either have retired from competition or are about to do so, are JANE BARKMAN, ELLIE DANIEL, MICKI KING, KAREN MOE, LYNN VIDALI, FRANK HECKL, MITCH IVEY, BRIAN JOB, STEVE POWER and BERNIE WRIGHTSON.

REIGNING, self-acclaimed women's tennis champion BOBBY RIGGS says he has no commitment to play CHRIS EVERT in a $50,000 winner-take-all match. "There's nothing firm about that at all," says Riggs. "I'm waiting now as the women's champion to see which one is the logical contender, which one has the best record."

Riggs was interviewed at Franklin High School in Highland Park, where he graduated in 1936. He received a trophy from the school inscribed "To Robby Riggs, Franklin's Chauvinistic Tennis Player."

THE NCAA will appeal a federal court decision that a minimum grade point average of 1.8 (C-minus) could not be applied to eligibility of athletes.

"The NCAA believes it is an incongruous decision to hold that a reasonable and valid rule cannot be enforced in a reasonable manner," NCAA executive director WALTER BYERS said.

AMERICAN League president JOE CRONIN has ordered Texas Ranger manager WHITEY HERZOG to send him the vase-line smeared baseball Cleveland pitcher GAYLORD PERRY allegedly threw Wednesday night.

The ball was retrieved by Ranger bat boy STEVE MACKO after Perry had thrown it past his catcher, DAVE DUNCAN. The ball was given to Herzog, who raced out of the dugout yelling, "grease, grease, and what the hell are you going to do about it?"

Umpire ART FRANTZ did something immediately, throwing Herzog, who had punctuated his outrage with a brilliant display of hat throwing, out of the game.

MONTREAL'S Stanley Cup champion Canadiens and the Chicago Black Hawks have captured seven of 12 berths on the NHL's all-star teams.

Montreal goalie KEN DRYDEN came closest to being a unanimous choice, polling 238 of a possible 240 votes. Boston defenseman BOBBY ORR pulled 236 votes.

The rest of the first team was composed of PHIL ESPOSITO of Boston, MICKY REDMOND of Detroit and FRANK MAHOVLICH of Montreal.

The second team is comprised of Philadelphia's BOBBY CLARKE, New York's BRAD PARK, Chicago's BILL WHITE, Montreal's YVAN COURNOYER, Chicago's TONY ESPOSITO and Chicago's DENNIS HULL.

MAZDA'S ROTARY ENGINE CAN TAKE IT. JUST ASK THE EXPERTS.

"MAZDA CAN TAKE IT"

"Mazda can take it. Durability is at least as good as most reciprocating piston engines you want to name and, in all likelihood, better than the engines that drive Mazda's competitors. . . . As a result of our 85,000 miles of hard driving and subsequent analysis, we're led to only one conclusion—the rotary engine is uncontestedly a practical here-and-now alternative to the reciprocating piston engine. . . . Although pressures of our deadlines forced us to tear down our engine before the planned 100,000-mile target, we're confident that that figure was a realizable goal for our Mazda."

— Road Test

"SEALS? GOOD FOR AT LEAST ANOTHER 100,000 MILES."

"Is 30,000 miles a true test of durability? In this case, it is, because the miles were put on in the space of 18 months by at least 12 different drivers, under every imaginable set of driving conditions, including much abuse and neglect. We feel that these 30,000 miles are more representative of actual consumer use than 60,000 miles would have been if racked up in short order, under favorable conditions. . . . How much life was left in our engine seals? Another 60-70,000 miles seems a safe estimate, for a total of close to 100,000 miles, before a seal change is even recommended. And you can count another 50-60,000 miles (for a total of at least 150,000) before new seals are really needed."

— Popular Science

40,000 MILES OF "HIGH INTENSITY TESTING."

"Car and Driver undertook the most extensive and lengthy test in its history . . . over 40,000 miles and 1.5 months of high intensity testing. At the end there was a complete tear-down of the engine. . . . In all, the car proved as durable as anything you can buy today. With the exception of failed (gear) synchronizers, every component successfully endured the rigors of automotive No Man's Land—Manhattan—as well as a team of sadistic test drivers."

— Car and Driver

"THOUSANDS OF MILES ABOVE 80 MPH."

"The engine has had a good thrashing: our 24,000 miles must be the equivalent of an average American driver's 40,000. The RX-2 spent thousands of miles of its life above 80 mph and hundreds above 100, not to mention how often our drivers put the tachometer into the yellow 6500-7000 range. The Wankel engine really invites this kind of thing because of its remarkable smoothness. In conclusion the RX-2 gets high marks. As we said at the outset, the engine was the big question mark, and it has allayed any doubts we had about its durability while endearing itself to the entire staff with its performance."

— Road & Track

"LARGELY TROUBLE-FREE."

"It is largely trouble-free. . . . The engine maintains its tune, stays on the road and out of the shop. It does, indeed, have a lot going for it."

— Playboy

MAZDA ELIMINATES "THINGS THAT CAN GO WRONG."

"Here at last is a practical alternative to the conventional automobile engine. . . . Eliminating such things as valves, camshaft, lifters, rocker gear, rods and wristpins also eliminates forever all the things that can go wrong with them."

— Road Test

HOW ABOUT PERFORMANCE?

"... touch the accelerator and the motor purrs while the car streaks forward as if its tail were on fire."

— Forbes

"... the Mazda rotary revs so willingly, so eagerly—the higher it goes, the stronger it feels . . ."

— Motor Trend

Lynwood ace to join 49ers

At 5-foot-9, 185 pounds, it is unlikely Pat McMullen ever expected to be compared to Clifton Pondexter, the 6-foot-8, 235-pound all-America prep basketball star.

But McMullen's signature on a national letter-of-intent has elicited such a comparison from Long Beach State baseball coach John Gonsalves.

"Getting Pat McMullen to come to school here means as much to me as signing Clifton Pondexter meant to Lute Olson," says Gonsalves. "Pat has the ability to be a great one. He's been a winner all his life and we hope he can carry on here at Long Beach."

McMullen, a lefthander, is a certain all-CIF selection this season after hurling Lynwood to the quarterfinals of the CIF playoffs. McMullen, bothered most of his junior year by a sore arm, was 11-2 this season for the Knights. He had nine shutouts and allowed only six earned runs in 95 innings for an 0.44 ERA.

McMullen, who played the outfield when he wasn't pitching, had 138 strikeouts while allowing only 41 hits and 35 walks. The youngster opened the season with 28 consecutive scoreless innings, yielded one run to Downey and then ran off another string of 33 scoreless innings.

"He's the greatest prospect we've recruited since I've been here," says Gonsalves. "He has an outstanding curve ball—that's what he uses for most of his strikeouts—and he is a very intelligent pitcher."

McMullen will spend the summer pitching for the Reds in the Long Beach Police League. In his first start last Wednesday, McMullen struck out 16 while winning, 9-2.

McMullen's mother, Mrs. Jeanne Clark, has collected the game ball each time her son has pitched a shutout.

"It's a tradition I'd like to see continued here," smiles Gonsalves. "In fact, I'd like to donate about 18 or 20 baseballs to her collection during Pat's stay at Long Beach."

Stan falls in French tennis

PARIS (UPI) — Favored Stan Smith, his big game blunted by the chill and damp of a wet summer day, doublefaulted his way out of the $133,000 French Open tennis championships Friday when upset by hard-running Dutchman Tom Okker.

Okker, the 18th seed, completed a 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, win over Smith to move into the quarterfinals.

While big Stan stumbled, Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. continued her serene way into the last four of the women's singles with a 6-3, 6-3, win over West Germany's Helga Masthoff.

Rain continued to plague the tournament and harassed organizers said play, weather permitting, would continue under floodlights in an effort to catch up the schedule. The championships have already been extended one day to Monday.

With the top-seeded Smith being bounced, only Ilie Nastase of the top seven seeds remained in contention. The Romanian touch artist, the reigning U.S. Open champion and Masters title holder, did not have to call on his armory of strokes to defeat Frenchman Francois Jauffret, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The Smith-Okker match was resumed with the rangy American leading 2-1 in the fourth set. He immediately found trouble with his service.

Two doublefaults gave the Dutchman two match points. Smith saved these but on Okker's third match point he served his third double of the game and that was it.

Okker and Nastase joined Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., and Czechoslovak Jan Kodess in the last eight.

Joining Miss Evert in the semi-finals were former champion Evonne Goolagong of Australia, a 7-6, 6-4 winner over Czechoslovak Martina Navratilova, and Frenchwoman Francoise Durr, who registered a 6-0, 1-6, 6-1 win over compatriot Odile de Rubien.

In the semis, title favorite Margaret Court of Australia meets Miss Goolagong in one match while Misses Evert and Durr clash in the other.

Pro pin stars in Downey

Following a five-week layoff, the Professional Bowlers Assn. begins its $1 million Summer-Fall tour today with a 144-man field competing in the $55,000 Winston-Salem Open at Brunswick Wonderbowl in Downey, 7676 Firestone Blvd.

Heading the list of PBA stars is Don McCune of Munster, Ind., winner of two tour titles this year—the Winston-Salem Classic and the Miller High Life Open—and the leading money winner with $39,960 through 13 tournaments.

Joining McCune will be Barry Asher of Costa Mesa, second in PBA money with $36,106; Jim Godman, Firestone Tournament of Champions winner, and Long Beach's Bobby Knipfle, winner of the King Louie Open in Kansas City earlier this year.

Forty-two games of qualifying and match game eliminations will be rolled in the four-day tournament before the top five scorers advance to Tuesday's closed circuit televised finals at 7 p.m.

The tournament schedule calls for qualifying rounds today at 10 a.m., 4:30 and 10:30 p.m., and again on Sunday at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. The top 24 bowlers then head into match game eliminations at 7 and 10 p.m. Sunday. Additional match game competition will be held Monday at noon, 3:30, 7 and 10 p.m.

The first place winner receives $8,000.

The $55,000 Winston-Salem Open is the first of 20 tournaments on the PBA's Summer-Fall tour and will take the bowlers from coast-to-coast between now and Dec. 14.

Combined news services PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Eagles' coach Mike McCormack said Friday the club was "instituting trade talks" with the Rams after quarterback Roman Gabriel said he wanted to play in Philadelphia.

McCormack announced after a day-long meeting with Gabriel that the Rams' Star "says he would like to come to Philadelphia" and the matter now rests with Rams general manager Don Klosterman. Gabriel, who has stated

Roman would play in Philadelphia

Gabe, Eagles await Rams' word

he does not want to play with the Rams next season, said his objective now was "to become part of this team."

McCormack, at a news conference attended by Gabriel, said he was awaiting a call from Klosterman to find out what the Rams wanted for the quarterback, who was plagued with arm problems last year and has been feuding with the Rams' management.

In Los Angeles, Klosterman said, "We have talked to the Eagles briefly this afternoon and no trade has been consummated. It isn't our practice to comment on trades that haven't been made yet. I hope we can make some progress over the weekend."

Asked what the Rams want in return for the 11-year veteran who was the NFL's most valuable player in 1969, Klosterman replied, "Equal value."

"I don't see eye to eye with the management out there," Gabriel said. "They have lied to me and been very deceitful."

McCormack said they made a "definite offer" for Gabriel in March and "when that was turned down, we thought the negotiations had ended."

McCormack said the Eagles cannot afford "the price tag" the Rams put on Gabriel in March but that Klosterman assured him on Tuesday "it won't be as steep" this time.

McCormack said if they could obtain Gabriel to play and work with the second-year quarterback John Reaves "it could solve the Eagles' quarterback situation for the next 15 years."

McCormack would not say what the last trade offer from the Rams was, but admitted it was "players, quite a few. At least three players."

The Eagles' coach said he was "confused" about not hearing from Klosterman because he had contacted the Rams' general manager before meeting with Gabriel to insure that there would be "no tampering" and was told the club would "think about it."

McCormack said when he talked to Klosterman Thursday morning, he was told "they still hadn't thought about it" and he would be called later that day.

"If he doesn't call, we'll spend a dime again and call him," McCormack said.

Asked if he thought the delay was because the Rams were talking trade with somebody else, McCormack said "that possibility entered my mind."

But Gabriel interrupted to say, "I still have control over that. They can't trade me without my consent and my objective is to become part of this team."

Gabriel, who has a clause in his contract that he cannot be traded without his approval, said he was not contacting any other team now because "we like what we see here."

Kemper leader: 'Best I've played'

CHARLOTTTJE, N.C. (UPI) — Leonard Thompson, a 26-year-old who joined the pro tour last year, tied the course record with a seven-under-par 65 to take a two-stroke, second-round lead Friday in the $200,000 Kemper Open with a sizzling 12-under-par 132.

"It may be the best I've ever played — certainly it's the best for two consecutive rounds," said Thompson, a Lumberton, N.C., resident who had tied for third at 67 in the first round.

"Normally, anytime I can break 70 I'm happy," he said.

Thompson is 31st on the money list this year with $38,040 and his best finish of the season was a tie for fourth at Houston. He toured the 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course with eight birdies and a bogey Friday.

Wadkins and Ken Still, a 13-year PGA tour veteran confined mostly to the mediocre ranks recently, at 10-under 134. Wadkins, No. 4 in money winnings this year, had a 68 Friday, while Still shot his second straight five-under 67.

"I played a good solid round," Thompson said. "I made a lot of putts. You have to make a lot of putts when you shoot 65."

Thompson said lessons he had received from Jim Colbert a few weeks back had made the biggest difference in his game and said he was playing more relaxed this year.

Arnold Palmer, also working with a 68, fared little better, turning in a 73 for 141.

Jacklin grabs share of lead in French golf

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — Tony Jacklin and Bernard Hunt of England and Christy O'Connor of Ireland moved into a three-way tie for first place in second-round play Friday in the French Open golf championship.

The championship has been plagued by rain through the first two rounds, and as he came off the course Jacklin said the rain "dampens everyone's enthusiasm for playing and watching the game."

The rain may have dampened Jacklin's enthusiasm but it did no harm to his game. The Englishman came back with a 68 to put with his 72 of Thursday.

GOING, GOING—RATS! Lanny Wadkins' urging is in vain as putt fails to drop for birdie on 18th hole of Kemper Open Friday. PGA's No. 4 money winner is in second place.

Runnersup were Lanny

Trojans nip L.A. State, 4-3, in district series

Roy Smalley, whacked a two-run homer, tripled, then scored what proved the winning run as defending national champion USC edged Los Angeles State, 4-3, Friday in the first game of the NCAA District 8 baseball playoffs.

Smalley connected in the second inning with one aboard for the home run to tie the score after Los Angeles scored twice in the first inning to take a 2-0 lead.

With the Trojans leading 3-2 in the eighth, Smalley tripled and came home on a sacrifice fly.

The Diablos loaded the bases in the ninth inning and Trojan ace Randy Scarberry walked in one run but then pitched his way out of the jam for the victory.

The second game of the best-of-three series was scheduled today between USC — the NCAA champions the last three seasons — and Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. champion LA State.

Southern Cal now has a 45-11 season mark to 31-19 for Los Angeles.

The winner of the series plays Harvard next Saturday night in the NCAA championships at Omaha, Neb.

Feuerbach 69-9 in opening of USTFF

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Al Feuerbach, the burly giant with the golden arm, established a U.S. Track and Field Federation record Friday night by heaving the shot 69 feet, 9 1/4 inches.

The world record holder, representing the Pacific Coast Track Club of Long Beach, shattered the old mark of 68-1 3/4 set in 1971 by Randy Matson.

Feuerbach, former Emporia, Kan., State star who has his eye on 73 feet, broke Matson's long-standing world standard at San Jose, Calif., two weeks ago with a 71-7 toss. Matson's record was 71-5 1/2.

As usual, Feuerbach topped teammate George Woods, who recorded 68-0 in Friday night's competition staged in brisk wind and under heavy overcast.

Sam Colson, University of Kansas ace, threw the javelin 260-2.

Colson has been bothered by a sore elbow in his throwing arm.

WEALTHY PELE AT COLISEUM SUNDAY

Joe Namath, Jerry West, Dick Allen, Bobby Orr and Jack Nicklaus are paid handsomely in their sports, but each must play second fiddle to Brazilian soccer star Pele.

The 31-year-old leader of the Santos team will perform his magic in the Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday at 3, at the fifth stop of the team's six-city tour of the United States.

Because he is the only man to ever score more than 1,000 goals against world-class competition, Pele has seen his salary grow from the $75 per game he earned as a 15-year-old to the more than $2 million a year he commands now.

Santos' opposition Sunday will be seven-time Mexican national champion Guadalajara, whose defense is anchored by 28-year-old all-star goalie Nacio Calderon.

Klecker hurls against Barons

Big Ed Klecker, sporting an 0.46 earned-run average, goes after his 16th Western Softball Congress win tonight as the Stevenson-Forster Lakewood Warner Jets play the Greater Lakewood Barons at Mayfair Park at 8:15.

The Jets, boasting three hitters over .300, Bob Guy, Hal Martinez and Bill Hardy, lead the WSC with a 16-3 record while the Barons are last with a 3-15 mark. Pat Carney, at .302, is the top Barons hitter.

A first look at 'The Student Prince'

By DAVID LEVINSON
Staff Writer

When I told Elise Emery, this newspaper's arts editor, that I had never seen "The Student Prince," her face fell. Clearly, she regarded the idea of my reviewing it as akin to sending Casey Stengel to assess Bach's "Art of the Fugue."

But there I was at the Jordan Theater, the only living American never to have seen the Sigmund Romberg show. My observations on the Long Beach Civic Light Opera company's performance must be read in the knowledge that they come out of pure ignorance of the plot, except as rerun in a slightly different version by King Edward VIII in 1936.

I thought it was swell. Nifty, even. It bubbled with good tunes well sung. It was no doubt a purely personal and perverse reaction that the creaky 1924-vintage plot took on strangely contemporary tones.

For one thing there's this fellow named Lutz — which rhymes, depending on which actor is saying it, with klutz or flutes — who wears a phony beard and writes memos in invisible ink.

Then there are all these students at the University of Heidelberg. They have names like Detjeff and von Asterberg, and they dress like White House guards, back in the era when H. R. Malmesbury was ordering the uniforms.

Heidelberg itself seems more like Disneyland and USC than a university that dates back to the 14th century.

So I kept expecting Cubans to pop up saluting and taping door locks.

This may not be a normal reaction. Anyway, everyone who did show up was entertaining.

As the student prince, James Cutlip looked rather more like a city manager, but he has a reasonably lusty tenor voice for belting out "Deep In My Heart" and "Serenade," and he turned out to have the acting ability to make plausible his role as a royal beer drinker.

His beloved, a barmaid named Kathie, was engagingly done by Irene Chapman. At first, she was determinedly cute and employed so much vibrato her performance lacked presence. It had the sound of someone imitating an opera singer. Later, as she warmed to the role, she was properly fetching, wholesome and real.

Jack Ritschel's strong baritone seemed ideally suited to the role of Dr. Engel, an Old Heidelberg Boy who sings "Golden Days" from time to time and counsels the prince on student ways.

Glenn Bradley was a hit as Lutz, the valet, bumbling spy and womanizer. The woman in his case was engagingly played by Cammy Wesson with a lot of what we oldsters used to call S.A. until those initials were appropriated by a neighboring newspaper as the proper abbreviation for Santa Ana. There was no Santa Ana about her performance at all.

Robert S. Magid was a believable prime minister — an absolute necessity, I judge, if the plot is to work at all, for it falls to him to persuade the prince that duty calls him to the throne and to another woman.

The other woman, Princess Margaret, was played by Susanne Ault, who managed to make a sympathetic part of a difficult role.

The acting and singing of Tonn Dushman as Captain Tarnitz, Thomas Diamond as von Asterberg and Gary Brunson as Lucas were accomplished. Ron Cessna, William Earl and Dan Rodgers provided strong support as Hubert, Ruder and Toni, and Norma Northcott in another non-singing role was the model of a grand duchess.

Ensemble work, both in dancing and singing, was precise, and the tempi chosen by conductor David Hubler were excellent. His floppy conducting occasionally suggested, however, that he was afraid no one was watching.

One wonderful blessing: The amplification system has apparently solved the problems of audibility at the theater.

Other performances are scheduled for 8:30 p.m. today and on June 8, 9, 15, 16 and 17, and at 2:30 p.m. this Sunday and 2 p.m. the following Sunday.

Jail term cut for newlywed

QUINCY (UPI) — As a gift to the newlyweds he had just married, Justice Court Judge Elmer W. Hoskins suspended one month off the sentence he imposed on the groom only a week before.

Hoskins had sentenced Lloyd Marshall, 42, and Jennifer Salleng, 19, to six months in jail for possession of stolen property. He later suspended four months of Miss Salleng's sentence.

Thursday he let the couple out of jail briefly, performed a marriage ceremony and dropped one month off Marshall's sentence.

age, marital status, children and the like.

After investigation, the parties are introduced by mail or, if the client wants to pay for the trip, in person.

"We're looking for single women with an infinite variety of qualities—as countless as the miles in the trackless bush of Australia," said Sanders.

"Mostly, though, we're looking for honesty. That's basic to a lasting marriage."

SANDERS indicated the matchmaker's fee usually ran from $50 to $200, depending on the amount of investigation required.

"If she has six kiddies, it will take more investigation to match her up with a partner willing to accept six. If a professional woman wants someone in her own age bracket and class, it will be more trouble than finding a partner for an office worker," he said.

"It depends on the requirements—an attractive partner or one with money are harder to find."

Sanders will move on to other cities, leaving behind "counselors" from his firm to open local offices.

Supervisors agreed Friday to pay $194,500 as part settlement of a $900,000 claim stemming from the death of a Whittier man during an abortive raid conducted by narcotics officers from the state, sheriff's department and Vernon Police Department in 1969.

The balance of the out-of-court settlement, $705,500, will be paid by the state and the city of Vernon, according to County Counsel John Larson.

Larson told supervisors the state and the city of Vernon were prepared to pick up all but 21.5 percent of the settlement in the suit brought by the widow and two children of Hayward Dyer.

The suit contended that Dyer was shot to death when a bullet crashed through the floor of the apartment above him. The shot was said to have been fired accidentally by one of the Vernon officers who was carrying an unauthorized Army automatic rifle.

In vowing to pay the claim, the supervisors were highly critical of the officers who, according to the suit, had been drinking for about two hours before staging the raid.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said the officers, some dressed in hunting jackets and derbies, first wrongly raided Dyer's apartment despite having a search warrant for the apartment above his. He said Lynwood police investigating the shooting asked all six officers engaged in the raid to take an alcoholic test and that all except one refused to do so.

Hahn won board support for a motion urging that the state code be changed to ensure that at least one uniformed policeman be included in any planned raid so that the persons being raided would know police agencies were involved.

Supervisor Ernest Debs also won support for a motion calling for a report on what action was taken against the Vernon officer who fired the fatal shot.

Larson told supervisors that had the case gone to trial it was estimated the jury would return a verdict ranging from a settlement of $600,000 to $1.5 million. Officials said the reason the state and Vernon were prepared to pay more than one-third each of the out-of-court settlement was that the state had originated the raid and that the Vernon officer had accidentally fired the shot.

Yorty's last talk with press short, not sweet

United Press International In his last hurrah, scrappy Sam Yorty was still scrapping — scolding his critics and making ominous warnings for those who voted him out of the office of mayor.

The 63-year-old Yorty appeared for only five minutes at a Los Angeles news media luncheon on the top floor of City Hall which has been one of the monthly ceremonies for almost 10 of the past 12 years of his administration.

And if the reporters anticipated a wise-cracking good loser to black City Councilman Thomas Bradley, they miscalculated.

was not racist," he added. "There was a big black bloc vote."

The outgoing mayor never once mentioned Bradley's name in his speech. An aide close to Yorty said that so far as he knew Yorty and Bradley had not even spoken on the telephone since the runoff.

In the only touch even close to humor, Yorty noted that now he was leaving office after three terms the salary of mayor was going up from $35,000 to $50,000 a year.

HIS biggest problem now, he said, is going through his files and deciding what documents and letters to keep for his own personal use and enjoyment.

Yorty said he particularly wanted to "keep the letters I wrote the President about the war."

"I wish you all well," he said. "Most of the media has been fair with me, although some have been very unfair. I'll still be around. I've had a lot of offers and I don't know which one I'll take. It's been fun."

Then the mayor said a "conflict in schedules" prevented his staying for lunch. Sam Yorty, unsmiling, walked briskly out to the elevator.

Nude ban stay denied by Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Friday refused to block enforcement of antitopless ordinances enacted by Sacramento and Orange Counties in California.

Douglas denied requests for stays pending appeal to the high court of a May 1 decision of the California Supreme Court upholding both ordinances.

The county laws ban topless and bottomless displays in public places. Earlier this year, the high court upheld a California law that curtailed bottomless displays. The court based its action on the constitutional authority of the states to regulate the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The two county ordinances are not limited to places serving alcohol.

The stay application involving the Orange County ordinance was filed by Harvey S. Owen, operator of Harvey's Guest House and June Crownover, who was identified as an Orange County topless and bottomless dancer.

The Sacramento County law was attacked in a stay application filed by Clarence Reynolds, Kathleen Rose Gaines, Marsha Gean McNabb, Leonard L. Glancy and Susanne Marie Haines.

YORTY started right out by saying that he thought he might possibly be "the last moderate mayor of Los Angeles."

"This city is going to the left," he said.

Then he launched an attack on those who said he conducted a "racist" campaign.

Yorty said he had been told by his advisers that in three black districts of the city the margin against him had been almost 100,000 votes.

"So what I was saying

was not racist," he added. "There was a big black bloc vote."

"This city is going to the left," he said.

Then he launched an attack on those who said he conducted a "racist" campaign.

Yorty said he had been told by his advisers that in three black districts of the city the margin against him had been almost 100,000 votes.

"So what I was saying

was not racist," he added. "There was a big black bloc vote."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas Friday refused to block enforcement of antitopless ordinances enacted by Sacramento and Orange Counties in California.

Douglas denied requests for stays pending appeal to the high court of a May 1 decision of the California Supreme Court upholding both ordinances.

The county laws ban topless and bottomless displays in public places. Earlier this year, the high court upheld a California law that curtailed bottomless displays. The court based its action on the constitutional authority of the states to regulate the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The two county ordinances are not limited to places serving alcohol.

The stay application involving the Orange County ordinance was filed by Harvey S. Owen, operator of Harvey's Guest House and June Crownover, who was identified as an Orange County topless and bottomless dancer.

The Sacramento County law was attacked in a stay application filed by Clarence Reynolds, Kathleen Rose Gaines, Marsha Gean McNabb, Leonard L. Glancy and Susanne Marie Haines.

YORTY started right out by saying that he thought he might possibly be "the last moderate mayor of Los Angeles."

The outgoing mayor never once mentioned Bradley's name in his speech. An aide close to Yorty said that so far as he knew Yorty and Bradley had not even spoken on the telephone since the runoff.

In the only touch even close to humor, Yorty noted that now he was leaving office after three terms the salary of mayor was going up from $35,000 to $50,000 a year.

HIS biggest problem now, he said, is going through his files and deciding what documents and letters to keep for his own personal use and enjoyment.

Yorty said he particularly wanted to "keep the letters I wrote the President about the war."

"I wish you all well," he said. "Most of the media has been fair with me, although some have been very unfair. I'll still be around. I've had a lot of offers and I don't know which one I'll take. It's been fun."

Then the mayor said a "conflict in schedules" prevented his staying for lunch. Sam Yorty, unsmiling, walked briskly out to the elevator.

Single no longer regarded as odd

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

"This is the best time in the whole history of the world to be single..."

That's what one single unmarried person says, and who's to deny it?

Changing attitudes about the "singles" life-style are examined in a half-hour special airing at 10:30 p.m. Sunday on KNBC (Channel 4). It's called "Hook, Line and Single," and it's narrated by Jack Klugman, Emmy Award-winning performer on television's "The Odd Couple" comedy series.

The theme of the documentary seems to be that those who choose to remain single should be able to do so without social pressures and discrimination.

Or, as one of the show's writers puts it: "Gone today is the Victorian past with its fairy tale ideals and demands that everyone marry or else suffer as an unattached freak. No longer is marriage such a magnificent obsession."

The co-writers and co-associate producers of the program are single women themselves, Shelby Livingston and Connie Zimmerman.

Ms. Livingston got the idea for it after reading a newspaper editorial on the "challenge" of being single. She believes strongly in the program's message, as she puts it, that marriage is NOT a prerequisite for membership in the human race."

Ms. Zimmerman, whose writing and production experience was vital to the project, also feels strongly that everyone deserves to be treated as an individual, without stigma.

THEY POINT OUT that there are more than 60 million single people in the United States today, or one-third of the adult population. Many of them, of course, reside in Southern California.

Viewers are introduced to a divorced minister, Rev. Richard Chen, a father of four, who has formed a church in Orange County devoted primarily to single people, the First Singles Church, U.S.A.

They are introduced to Helen Sosaya, a legal secretary who has never been married, and her 9-year-old adopted daughter.

Viewers also see Emily Coleman at work with single people in her encounter group sessions in a Topanga Canyon recreation center.

And singles are shown at play in Marina del Rey — singles who seem to celebrate the single life as a positively good choice for them.

While the program undoubtedly is slanted toward a particular view, it should be worth viewing. But do single people watch televisions? I always thought they were having too good a time doing other things.

"THE FAMILY in Transition," a 20-part series, will be offered on KNBC starting at 6:25 a.m. Monday. It will air Monday through Friday for four weeks.

Each half-hour program will feature guest experts and will be moderated by Pearl Brown, psychiatric social worker and marriage and family counselor with Western Psychological Center.

The series is part of KNBC's special emphasis on "The Family" throughout the month of June.

JAMES W. McCORD JR., the convicted Watergate burglary figure who has testified extensively about the break-in and other aspects of the scandal, will be the guest on "Face the Nation" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday on CBS (Channel 2). He will be interviewed by three newsmen.

"50 HAPPY YEARS," a special program marking the 50th anniversary of Walt Disney Productions, will be repeated on "The Wonderful World of Disney" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday on NBC (Channel 4). It originally aired in January.

Highlights of more than 60 Disney films will be shown.
